WALKER URGES AIRING PRIVATE LIFE AT ALBANY

Cries "Don't Spare Me" as Witness Refuses to Reveal It.

SPECTATORS WARNED APPLAUSE FORBIDDEN

Roosevelt Turns Pale as He Sharply Questions Hilly on Fee Splitting.

Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A witness' flagging memory averted the public exposition tonight of a discussion of Mayor Walker's private life which took place at a closed hearing of the Hofstadter legislative committee.

Jacob Gould Schurman, jr., former aid to Samuel Seabury, was asked by John J. Curtin, Walker's counsel, at a night session of the Walker ouster hearing:

"What was it that prompted the remark by Mr. Block (Paul Block, the publisher), 'Are you investigating Mr. Walker's public life or private life?'"

Schurman said, "I don't remember very well. In justice to Mayor Walker I would rather not say."

"Don't spare me," Walker, sitting at his counsel table, called.

When Curtin pressed the question, Schurman said, "I don't remember."

Voluntary Information Claimed.

Schurman, replying to Seabury's questions, said Block voluntarily gave information about the mayor's private affairs. The witness explained this was given while the official stenographer was out of the room.

Seabury had called Schurman to answer Mr. Block's testimony that he had seen a missing check for $7,500 which was made out to the "Unknown Person" in the case and which had been drawn on the Block-Walker stock market account. A facsimile of the check was printed in a New York paper.

Schurman said the Seabury staff never had the check, only the stub. After Curtin had asked Schurman if he knew a man named Haberman who had worked for the Sailing W. Baruch brokerage house was related to a member of the Seabury group, Seabury asked:

"Now may I ask if Mr. Curtin means to insinuate that an employe of Baruch & Co. who stole a check from them is related to a member of my staff?"

"I'll answer that at the proper time," Curtin replied.

Roosevelt Stops for Speech.

Seabury then called Philip L. Haberman, one of his assistants, who said he had no relatives at any time employed by the Baruch Co.

While tonight's session was in progress, Mr. Roosevelt recessed it for 12 minutes while he made a radio appeal for funds for the Democratic presidential campaign.

Earlier today Gov. Roosevelt threatened to exclude the public from the Walker ouster hearing after a burst of applause following upon a pointed exchange of remarks between Samuel Seabury and Arthur J. W. Hilly, New York City Corporation counsel.

Seabury questioned Hilly about an inquiry into fee-splitting charges to the mayor's brother, Dr. William Walker.

"How many years do you think your investigation will take?" Seabury asked.

"My investigation won't take one-tenth of the time a certain other investigation has taken," Hilly shot back, leaning forward out of his chair, "and I venture to say it won't cost the State anywhere nearly so much."

Roosevelt raised his head quickly and looked at a group of women along the wall as applause followed.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I can't

Missing Financier Victim of Amnesia

Turns Up Miles From His Illinois Home. Sore After Long Walk.

Chelsea, Mich., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—William A. Ernsting, 42, banker, who had been missing from his home in Bensenville, Ill., since Saturday afternoon, was found here late today. Apparently he had been a victim of amnesia and he said he could recall none of his actions since Saturday afternoon.

"When I came to this afternoon I was walking along a railroad track about 2 miles out of Chelsea," he told the Associated Press. "I couldn't remember anything since I was sitting on a bench in Washington Park, Chicago, last Saturday. I must have walked a long distance, though, because my feet were sore and I was worn out. I guess I ate fairly regularly, because I was not terribly hungry. As nearly as I can calculate, I spent $16 since I left home."

Chelsea is about 20 miles west of Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Edith McCormick Expires Peacefully in Coma at Chicago

Society Leader Once Was Regarded as World's Richest Woman.

Chicago, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, younger daughter of John D. Rockefeller, sr., died at 4:40 p. m., Central standard time, today, from the ravages of cancer.

The Chicago society leader, who once was recognized as the richest woman in the world, died peacefully after she had been in a coma for more than thirteen hours. She would have been 60 years old on August 31.

Death occurred in an apartment in the Drake Hotel, overlooking the Lake Shore Drive mansion, the gift of her father, which she deserted a few weeks ago when, apparently, she realized the seriousness of her illness.

With her when she died were her divorced husband, Harold F. McCormick; their daughters, Mrs. Mathilde McCormick Oser and Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard; their son, Fowler; Mrs. Hubbard's husband, Maj. Elisha D. Hubbard, of Connecticut; Fowler's wife of a little more than a year, the former "Fifi" Stillman; her son, Alexander "Bud" Stillman, and Edwin Krenn, the Swiss architect who long had been her social escort and business adviser.

Physicians who attended Mrs. McCormick said her last illness was the recurrence of a breast cancer for which she had been operated upon two years ago.

Soon after she moved into the hotel apartment, close members of her family, separated for several years by disagreements over domestic affairs, began to gather at her bedside, and the seriousness of her condition became known publicly.

Mrs. Oser and her husband, Max, whose marriage had been opposed by Mrs. McCormick, leading to an estrangement of several years, hurried from their home in Switzerland, Oser remaining in the East. It was the first time the family had been brought together in eleven years. Mrs. Hubbard's marriage last year, and Fowler's marriage to the former Mrs. Stillman, had estranged them from their mother for many months.

Since Harold McCormick and Mrs. McCormick were divorced, ten years ago, he had married Mme. Ganna Walska, Polish opera singer, but was later divorced from her. He paid his first wife occasional visits after his second divorce, and in the last two weeks was in constant attendance at Mrs. McCormick's bedside.

Late last week John D. Rockefeller, jr., the sick woman's brother, whom she had not seen for several years, left his summer home in Maine.

LEAGUE ACTION SNUB BY JAPANESE SEEN

U. S. Officials Believe Tokyo Intends to Pursue Own Course in Manchuria.

(Associated Press.)

An intention on the part of Japan to handle the Manchurian situation in its own way without awaiting the League of Nations report on the Sino-Japanese controversy was seen yesterday by American officials in the declaration of foreign policy enunciated at Tokyo by Foreign Minister Yasyua Uchida.

They also saw it as a bid for world support of the Japanese position and a restatement of principles with an eye to domestic politics.

As understood at the State Department, the Uchida address to the Diet was a notification to the League of Nations and the United States that Japan expects to grant recognition to the new Manchurian state of Manchukuo shortly and will combat the contention of other interested powers that such action is in violation of treaty obligations.

Department officials do not consider it likely that any American official statement on the Manchurian matter will be made until the Lytton commission's report is available to Secretary Stimson.

While the address of the Japanese minister for foreign affairs projected no essentially new arguments in support of Japan's action in Manchuria, in the opinion of many American officials and representatives of other interested powers, it had an air of finality which was lacking in pre-

Poison Dose Fatal To 'Kidnap' Victim

Man Reported Abducted in Chicago Found Dead in Southern Hotel.

New Orleans, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A hotel guest tentatively identified by police as Dave R. Ettinger, official of a Chicago optical company, died of poison in his room here today, four days after he was reported kidnaped in Chicago.

Hotel employes heard him groaning and called a doctor, but he died before first aid could be administered. A few minutes previously an unidentified man called the hotel desk by telephone and asked for instructions regarding administering an antidote, but when the doctor reached the room the dying man was alone. A coroner's autopsy revealed he died of poison and police reported two glasses of liquor were found beside his bed.

Authorities said they had learned two men arrived here yesterday by plane from Cleveland, Ohio, registered at the hotel as A. N. Sanderson, of St. Louis, and A. J. Blair, of Cleveland, and were assigned the room in which the dying man was found. An automobile met them at the airport and hurried away with them.

2 Forced Into Vault As Bandits Rob Bank

Durham, N. C., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Four unmasked bandits held up the West Durham branch of the Fidelity Bank early this afternoon and escaped in an automobile with an undetermined amount of money.

The only persons in the bank, Hazel Brown, stenographer and C. C. Cole, teller, were forced into the vault while the four made their get away.

Anesthetic Proposed For Opening Oysters

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A mild anaesthetic for oysters, to spare them the pain of prying open their shells, was suggested at the convention of the National Shell Fisheries Association today.

"For the sake of humanity as well as of economy," said Dr. Vera Koehring, of Washington, who is a doctor of science in the United States Bureau of Fisheries, "the proper way to open oysters is to give an anesthetic. Opening the oyster by roughly prying the tightly closed shell is equivalent to a major operation."

By the use of an anesthetic made of a solution of dioxide, lactic acid and boric acid, the oyster is brought to complete relaxation and automatically opens its shell so that the meat can be painlessly removed, Dr. Koehring said.

LIFE OF SANJURJO, ROYALIST, IS SPARED

Spanish Revolt Sentence of Death Commuted; Others Given Long Terms.

Madrid, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Gen. Jose Sanjurjo, an old war horse of the royalist regime, was convicted of rebellion against the young republic today and sentenced to death. His sentence was then commuted to life imprisonment.

The climax of a day and a half of deliberation by a mixed tribunal of the supreme court and the cabinet violently divided the populace according to its sympathies and gave rise to rumors of another monarchist uprising.

Gen. Hervanz, Sanjurjo's lifelong companion in arms, was sentenced to 30 years in prison—equivalent to a life term—Lieut. Col. Infantes received a term of 12 years and Capt. Justo Sanjurjo, the general's son, was liberated. These sentences were not altered.

The chief defendants were found guilty of conspiring to place Don

Roosevelt Favors Short Work Week

Would Provide Jobs for 15 Per Cent More Men, He Declares.

State Capitol, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 25 (U.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for the Presidency, declared himself late today in favor of a shorter working week as a means of relieving the unemployment situation.

The New York governor, in a telegram to the State Federation of Labor convention in Utica, declared that such a move would result in "room being made for at least 10 or 15 per cent more people in most of the plants which are at present in operation."

"I believe it is essential that definite steps be taken at once," he added.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was indorsed as presidential candidate today by the New York State Federation of Labor after warm protests from some of the labor delegates who took the floor to block the move.

FUNDS PLEA IS MADE BY ROOSEVELT ON AIR

But Assures His Hearers That Democratic Party "Is Not for Sale."

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The Democratic party, Gov. Roosevelt declared tonight in making a Nation-wide appeal for campaign contributions, "is not for sale."

"The Democratic party fortunately has no favorite group upon which it can call for large sums under the promise of privilege or immunity, express or implied," said an advance text of the governor's radio address given out at Democratic national headquarters.

"We have no Grundys to collect donations which are to be returned manyfold through tariff increases," he continued, as he asked for small contributions from "the plain citizen—the average citizen."

The governor spoke from Albany. On the same program were Evans Woollen, Indiana banker and chairman of the campaign finance committee, speaking from Indianapolis; former Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, chairman of the executive campaign finance committee, speaking from New York, and James A. Farley, national chairman, also speaking from New York.

"We figure that there will be 20,000,000 votes cast to make Gov. Roosevelt President of the United States," said Farley.

Four years ago "Al" Smith set a Democratic record by polling a few thousand more than 15,000,000 votes, while Herbert Hoover received 21,392,100.

"In the West they (the Republican leaders) are picturing Franklin D. Roosevelt as a Tammany ally and a creature of Wall street," said Woollen.

"In the East they are presenting him as a dangerous radical whose advent in the White House would make every great industry shudder.

"Obviously he could not be both. Actually he is neither."

Woollen, in the text given out at national headquarters, said in Roosevelt's two terms as governor, "no legitimate business that I ever heard of has made any claim that he made things difficult for it, or showed any symptom of the radicalism that his assailants charge him with."

"During that same period," the banker continued, I have yet to learn that labor suffered under his adminis-

10 Hurt as 1,000 in Detroit Fight Police Over Eviction

Detroit, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Trouble which had been brewing for a week over an attempted eviction flared into a clash between 1,000 civilians and 300 policemen this afternoon, with injuries to two patrolmen and eight rioters.

Twenty-one of the civilians were police prisoners tonight in addition to their eight injured, who were ordered held for investigation.

Police said the prisoners included several who had participated in previous eviction disorders.

This afternoon's disorders centered about the home of John Mitchell, 5106 Springwell avenue, where an eviction by constables was frustrated a week ago.

Since that time, police said, a crowd that increased steadily in numbers had concentrated in the neighborhood awaiting the return of the constables. This afternoon, officers said, neighbors asked that the crowd be dispersed and 200 uniformed patrolmen were dispatched to the scene, reinforced by mounted and motorcycle policemen and plain clothesmen to swell the force to 300.

In an early clash the patrolmen were repulsed by a shower of stones, bricks and sticks. Then the mounted and motorcycle policemen charged the crowd, driving the rioters a block down the street where they took up their stand in safety zones, protected by moving traffic. Many of them still were there tonight.

At least two shots were fired. Police investigators and civilians were at odds as to who fired the shots, but Wasson Ferman and Nick Clock, civilians, received minor gunshot wounds.

TRADE COUNCIL TO BAN SLUMPS IS HOOVER PLAN

Will Suggest Permanent Organization Today at Parley.

250 LEADERS HERE TO HELP MAP WORK

President to Outline Program Which Does Not Include Industry Control.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

A historic venture in national economic planning will be launched today when President Hoover meets with some 250 leaders in industry, commerce and finance to survey the results of the reconstruction program to date, and to chart the future course toward business recovery and stabilization.

Linked with the plan to consolidate the business gains of the last two months, the new program involves the larger objective of establishing a permanent economic council, which shall operate constantly to avoid the recurrent periods of wild inflation and overexpansion, which ever have been the heralds of depression and disaster.

Unlike all of the national planning agencies which have been advocated in academic discussion since 1929, the projected American council would operate entirely through conference and voluntary agreements.

Would Mobilize Leadership.

It contemplates no beaucratic regulation of industry, nor any system of direct governmental control. Instead, the new agency would mobilize business leadership for its own gigantic task of coordination and balance.

Preparing the ground for today's meeting, which is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. in the auditorium of the Department of Commerce, an unofficial executive committee of the business and industrial conferees met yesterday with Secretaries Mills, Chapin and Doak, and other ranking officers of those Federal agencies directly concerned with business and finance.

In these sessions, which did not adjourn until 6 o'clock last night, the chairmen of the twelve regional committees of bankers and industrialists reported on conditions in their respective districts, and agreed to urge the new permanent agency at today's plenary gathering.

Hoover to Open Parley.

President Hoover will open today's conference with a significant address, in which he will present an intimate account of the depression as seen from his own unrivaled vantage point. With this picture will go his charge to American business to provide national insurance against such a muddle again.

After their all-day session in the Treasury Department yesterday, the executive committee of the conference were invited to the White House

Five Bandits Shoot Up Bank and Take $5,000

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Five robbers entered the Marlboro Branch of the Irving Trust Co., in Brooklyn this afternoon, took $5,000 in cash, shot part of the sole off the acting manager's shoe and fired sixteen other shots at random, breaking glass surrounding the teller's cage and terrorizing four other employes. There were no customers in the bank.

After grabbing up the money which they crammed into a black bag, the men took two revolvers from the drawer in a teller's gage and ran for their automobile. The manager fired after them, hitting one of the men who clutched his side and screamed, but all escaped.

Two Fliers Far Asea En Route to Norway

Miss Earhart Sets Two Women's Records on Transcontinental Flight; Weather Still Delays Mollison's Return Hop.

(Associated Press.)

Developments in aviation yesterday included:

Clyde A. Lee, of Oshkosh, Wis., and John Bochkon, of New York, took off from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, for Oslo, Norway.

Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam completed a nonstop flight across the continent, the first ever made by a woman, and set a new long-distance flying record for her sex—2,435 miles.

Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, of Germany, and three companions hopped for Cordova, Alaska, from Dutch Harbor en route around the world.

Capt. J. A. Mollison, in New York, found the possibility of a take-off today on his return flight to England is remote, with weather still unfavorable.

George Hutchinson and his flying family were kept on Anticosti Island by bad weather. They will hop next for Labrador.

Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Far out on the hazardous west-to-east air trail of the North Atlantic tonight were Clyde A. Lee, of Oshkosh, Wis., and John Bochkon, of Brooklyn, N. Y., in a projected nonstop flight from Harbor Grace to Oslo, Norway.

Lee and Bochkon took off in their plane, the Green Mountain Boy, at

DELIVERY BOY BOUND, GAGGED AND ROBBED

2 Armed Men Take $24.15 From Youth in Connecticut Avenue Apartment.

Gagged, bound hand and foot and left helpless on the floor of a vacant apartment in the fashionable upper Connecticut avenue section, a 15-year-old drug store delivery boy lay huddled in a corner for nearly half an hour last night, after being attacked and robbed by two armed men.

Shortly after 9 o'clock a telephone order for several packages of cigarettes and a quantity of ice cream was received at the Cathedral Pharmacy, 3000 Connecticut avenue northwest. A man's voice asked that the order be sent to an apartment on the fourth floor at 2854 Connecticut avenue. Change for a $20 bill was requested.

The articles were given to Henry Ritnour, of 3220 Connecticut avenue, employed during vacation as delivery boy. The order amounted to 85 cents and Henry was told the customer would give him $20, which he was to change.

Arriving at the apartment the youth knocked. The door was opened by a young man, who asked him to step inside. Henry, noticing the apartment was bare of furniture, hesitated.

The man stepped into the hallway, grabbed the boy and jabbed a revolver in his side. Clapping his hand over Henry's mouth, the man dragged him in.

Once inside the assailant was joined by another man, Henry said. The boy told police the apartment was dark and he was carried across the room and thrown to the floor.

Neither of the men talked, the boy declared, but immediately started searching his pockets. They found the change given him and also took $5 of his, the boy said.

Pocketing the money, one of the men produced a quantity of heavy wire and began to bind Henry's hands and feet. Securely tied, the boy was pushed into a corner, while a gag was forced in his mouth.

Henry finally managed to remove the gag and shouted for help. A passerby, hearing the cries, called police.

LaGuardia Is Unhurt In Airplane Accident

Newton, Iowa, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia, of New York, was one of eight passengers aboard a United Airlines plane that nosed over in a forced landing at the airport today.

None of the passengers was hurt.

Boy's Story Spurs Air Suicide Hunt

Hockley Hall Youth Says He Saw Woman Drop From Plane.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Search for the body of Miss Marjorie Fletcher, Forestville, N. Y., school teacher, who Tuesday plunged from a plane near here, centered today to the east of Hockley Hall, where a 6-year-old boy said he saw a woman drop.

The boy, Frederick Speilman, was playing in the front of his home, and believed he was seeing a parachute jump, he later told his grandmother, Mrs. R. H. Cornwall, with whom he lives.

The section where the 37-year-old teacher is believed to have fallen to her death is heavily wooded and very swampy. So thick is the underbrush that the scores of men in searching parties have experienced difficulty in making their way through it.

Miss Fletcher employed a Washington aviator, Roger Scott, to take her on a plane ride over Annapolis. Some distance from this city, she suddenly leaped over the side of the ship.

PINCHOT DEMANDS DROPPING OF DAVIS

Pennsylvania G. O. P. Chiefs Asked to Prevent Senator From Making Race.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A demand that James J. Davis, Pennsylvania's junior member of the United States Senate, be asked to resign as a candidate for reelection was made to the Republican State committee tonight by Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

The governor's sensational move took the form of a letter to Republican State Chairman Gen. Edward Martin and was based, the governor said, upon Davis' Federal indictment last week for participation in an alleged national lottery.

He asserted: "Ever since he first became a candidate for the Senate, and even before that time, James J. Davis, junior senator from Pennsylvania, has been under suspicion.

"It is not enough to say that Davis has not yet been proved guilty. At the present moment he is a candidate of the Republican party of Pennsylvania for the United States Senate. The Republican party can not afford to run a candidate who is under suspicion. If Davis should be convicted, his conviction would leave Pennsylvania Republicans with no one of their party to vote for, and would be equivalent to handing the Pennsylvania senatorship over to the Democrats.

"I call upon the Republican State committee," the governor continued, "to preempt a ticket and put on it the name of a Republican against whom even the shadow of suspicion can not rest. Let us at last have a complete Pennsylvania delegation in the United States Senate for which we do not have to apologize to other States."

Cleveland, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Senator James J. Davis tonight greeted a request that he comment on the demand of Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania that he resign as a candidate for reelection with the remark: "I don't make any statements."

U. S. Lends Relief Money to Dakotas

$200,000 Total Must Be Used to Help Poor in Ten Counties.

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Corporation yesterday loaned $150,000 to South Dakota and $50,000 to Minot and Ward County, N. Dak., both sums to be used for destitution relief. The governor of South Dakota received the loan to meet the needs in eight counties.

The corporation board said a State relief committee would handle the fund and grant relief only "in cases where there is dire need and where such relief may be accomplished by affording employment to the unemployed as far as possible."

Conditions were reported by the South Dakota governor as serious in the western portion of Pennington County and practically all of Custer. Both of which are lumbering and mining districts. Mining operations virtually have ceased and there is little market for forest products.

2 Hurt in Philadelphia As Police Disperse Idle

Philadelphia, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Two persons were injured and six arrested in a clash today between police and several hundred persons who gathered on Reyburn Plaza and vicinity in what authorities said was an attempt to march on city hall during a meeting of the city council.

Several of the persons who said they were unemployed, managed to gain seats in the galleries of city council and while its meeting was in progress created a disturbance by shouting. The galleries were cleared by police and the gathering on the plaza dispersed.

FARMERS FREED AS MOB PERILS PRISON IN IOWA

55 Picketers Are Given Bond Under Mounted Machine Guns.

SHOT GUN ACCIDENT IS FATAL TO DEPUTY

Minnesota Holiday Director Against Using Force in Food Blockade.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—When a thousand angry farmers threatened to storm the jail, county officials tonight released on bonds 55 men who had picketed nearby highways in an effort to blockade the Omaha market.

Farmers from western Iowa communities invaded Council Bluffs late today and besieged the county jail, which was guarded by about 200 special deputy sheriffs and police armed with machine guns and shotguns.

F. Raymond Snyder, of Kingsley, Iowa, a leader in the movement to increase farm prices by blockading markets, had warned Sheriff P. A. Lainson that if the picketers were not released tonight the farmers would raid the jail and free them.

Lainson conferred with other county officials and it was agreed to release the prisoners on $100 bonds each and bring them in later for trial.

"Unlawful Assembly."

Property bonds covering bail were presented for 48 men whose cases were to be heard Wednesday. Earlier 12 men, who had been sent to jail for 30 days for failure to pay $100 fines, were liberated.

Charged with unlawful assembly, the picketers were arrested last night while attempting to keep live stock and produce trucks from reaching the important Omaha market. Only one road was being picketed today in Iowa.

As the imprisoned farmers left the jail, the crowd of several hundred spectators and farmers dispersed. The heavy cordon of officers which has been on guard at the courthouse and jail retired slowly into the courthouse.

The day was not without its casualties, however. Claude Dail, of Council Bluffs, a special deputy, was fatally wounded by an accidental discharge of a sawed-off shotgun while being shown how to operate it. Deputy Sheriff Ora Kinsel, who was demonstrating the gun, said he did not know it was loaded. Joe Ludwig, another deputy, was slightly wounded.

Troops Held Unnecessary.

In a statement issued late today at Des Moines, Gov. Dan Turner declared that the farm strike situation does not in his judgment call for use of Iowa National Guard troops.

The National Guard is in annual encampment at Des Moines.

The holiday sentiment was evidenced on yet another section today. Farmers of Pipestone County, Minn., plan to start a picket Monday, John Steffen, leader of the movement there, announced. Pipestone County is near the Iowa and South Dakota lines.

H. M. Harden, of St. Paul, a director of the Minnesota Farmers Holiday Association, said use of force had not been sanctioned by the State unit and declared "we are firmly against the action taken in the vicinity of Sioux City and Omaha."

Southeastern Iowa Farm Holiday leaders announced today through Carl Setterburg, Des Moines County chairmen, that township chairman of Des Moines, Louisa, Lee and Henry Counties will meet in Burlington, Monday, to discuss activity in the strike.

Another group of 88 farm pickets was released at Sioux City, Iowa, tonight when authorities failed to file charges against them. Sheriff John A. Davenport arrested the men for unlawful assembly in an effort to break the strike in that vicinity, where it first attained important proportions two weeks ago.

ROPER IN DRY PLEA TO GOV. ROOSEVELT

Warns Losing Large Numbers of Supporters If He Remains Wet.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Warning against alienating large numbers of dry votes in the Democratic party was given Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, in a telegram sent him yesterday by Daniel C. Roper, commissioner of internal revenue during the Wilson administration, and prominent in the party.

Democratic drys are not finding the same relish as are the wets in the anti-prohibition declaration in the party platform and the supplemental declarations of Gov. Roosevelt.

The fact that Mr. Roper telegraphed Gov. Roosevelt, cautioning him against offending too deeply the drys in his speech tomorrow night at Seagirt, N. J., emphasizes this. Mr. Roper is a dry among drys and possibly he is overanxious about the matter, but it is an anxiety prompted by a friendly feeling toward Roosevelt. Mr. Roper has had a place well up in front on the Roosevelt bandwagon, a seat he took early in the Roosevelt campaign for the nomination. He refused to make public the message he sent Gov. Roosevelt, saying any communication between himself and the nominee was a confidential one which he could not discuss.

Appeal Seen Hopeless.

Whatever the details of the Roper appeal, political observers see no prospect of any change of front on the part of Gov. Roosevelt to assuage the feelings of the drys. Not only the flat repeal plank in the party platform but Gov. Roosevelt's own declaration that he would favor immediate repeal and seek to have the Volstead law changed at once to permit legal manufacture of beer forbid that.

Already under fire for the indefiniteness of several of his campaign utterances, notably on the tariff and foreign debts, any shilly-shallying on the liquor question at this late date might well prove disastrous to Democratic campaign hopes.

Undoubtedly there is a widespread dry sentiment in Democratic strongholds, notably in what was once so proudly described in that section as the "Solid South." The drys are seeking to point to the Smith campaign debacle when the South forswore its party allegiance and helped elect President Hoover. That, they have argued, was because former Gov. Alfred E. Smith was wet. But that argument is not taken seriously and even the drys have grown weaker and weaker in advancing it.

Real Danger in East.

Gov. Roosevelt will not lose the erstwhile Solid South because he is wet, it is agreed, any more than Mr. Smith lost it because he was wet.

Against this negligible danger of losing the South because of his wetness there is the danger of losing the very important East if he is not wet enough and the latter danger is much the more real.

Nonetheless it is significant of the strength of dry sentiment that one of the strong supporters of Gov. Roosevelt has taken occasion to urge on him the wisdom of seeking some solution of the prohibition question which shall not cost him too many votes or tend to bring about a schism in the always scrappy Democratic ranks.

PERMANENT TRADE COUNCIL TO BAN SLUMPS, HOOVER AIM

at 9 o'clock last night, where the business reports from the twelve Federal Reserve districts were summarized for the Chief Executive. Although no official comment upon these reports was available last night, one member of the conference characterized them as "most encouraging."

"We have come back much farther than most of the country yet realizes," another member of the conference said.

In addition to the members of the Cabinet, and the chairmen of the twelve Federal Reserve committees of bankers and industrialists, the preparatory conference yesterday included Gov. Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board, Gov. Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank; Chairman Pomerene and President Miller, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Chairman Fort, of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and Carl Williams of the Federal Farm Board.

Daniel Willard, president of the B. & O. system, represented the railroads; and Walter Teagle, chairman of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, was invited to sit in as representative of the petroleum industry. Owen D. Young, chairman of the New York Federal Reserve committee bankers and industrialists which was the first of the twelve committees to be organized, led in the discussion for that group.

Los Angeles Banker Presides.

Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker and long an intimate friend of President Hoover, presided at the sessions of the executive committee yesterday. He has worked with Mr. Hoover on his general plans for economic stabilization since 1927.

Today's conference marks the fruition of several months' work in preliminary organization. As a result it will offer a more up-to-the-minute cross-section of business conditions throughout the country than has been available for many years, possibly the most complete "action" panorama of national economy ever achieved.

The twelve banker-industrialists committees began organizing late in April. Since that time they have canvassed business conditions thoroughly in their respective districts. They have spotted the precise locations in which commercial credits will expand employment immediately, and have measured the needs of their respective territories by every yardstick of business stability.

These findings now have been placed before the great administrative agencies of the Federal Government, whose function it is to coordinate and stimulate the final phases of the recovery effort. By this method there has been achieved a degree of cooperation between industry and finance which never before has been possible.

The scope and purposes of today's plenary session were sketched last night in the following official statement of the executive committee:

"For some weeks past informal meetings have been held, attended by members of the banking and industrial committees and Government officials, at which the possibility of setting up a central committee of the banking and industrial committees was discussed, such a committee to act as a central point of contact in those matters regarding cooperation between various public and semipublic agencies and the several banking and industrial committees, and to be of assistance to voluntary committees formed for the purpose of carrying out definite undertakings.

"Those attending these informal meetings also had considered some definite proposals looking to the stimulation of business activity and of employment. A full report was submitted to the conference today covering the discussions of and recommendations made by the informal group.

Program Planned.

"At the conclusion of the session it was the sense of those present that they would recommend to the conference that is to meet tomorrow the setting up of a central committee of the banking and industrial committees to meet the purposes above described, and would submit as well a definite program of activities that might be undertaken, either through the banking and industrial committee proper, or through subcommittees to be appointed with their cooperation."

Among those who have accepted invitations to the general conference today are Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation; Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.; Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors; Mangus W. Alexander, president of the national industrial conference board; H. I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Robert P. Lamont, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute; Harvey Firestone, Edsel Ford, Frank Knox, Silas Strawn and Thomas E. Wilson. These are but representative names among the 250 conferees.

The Fifth Federal Reserve District committee is headed by Edwin C. Graham, of Washington, president of the National Electrical Supply Co. Robert V. Fleming, president of Riggs National Bank, is the spokesman for Washington bankers on the committee.

Legion Posts Open Drive For Short Work Week

(Associated Press.)

A statement issued yesterday by Mark T. McKee, executive director of the American Legion's national employment commission, said legion posts in 3,300 cities and communities were working toward the adoption by industry generally of the shorter or "flexible" working week as a means of spreading employment.

"The same well organized machine which carried the first objective—the finding or creating of a million jobs—through to a successful conclusion on July 1," the statement said, "is running full blast in the second phase of the campaign," with the assistance of industrial and labor leaders in an industrial advisory council and a labor advisory council.

Mrs. Rheem Charges Cruelty in Divorce Plea

Reno, Nev., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Divorce complaints filed today included: Alice Wardman Rheem vs. Edmund D. Rheem, of Fairfax County, Va.; married Washington, D. C., June 1, 1916; cruelty; one child.

Mary Ethel W. Sears, of Ansonia, Conn.; married Washington, D. C., September 22, 1930. Cruelty.

WOMEN HELD STILL IN FAVOR OF HOOVER

Mrs. Yost Insists They Will Support Him More Than in Last Fight.

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Claims that President Hoover is stronger politically now than he was four years ago, when he polled more than 21,000,000 votes, were made by two Republican leaders tonight.

Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, director of the women's division of the Republican national committee, said the women of the Nation are "even more strongly in favor of President Herbert Hoover than they were in 1928."

Charles S. Whitman, former New York Governor, declared:

"The President is far stronger than he was four years ago. The odds are heavily in favor of his reelection.

"New York State is practically certain to go for Hoover and Curtis. Why shouldn't it? The Democratic party had had a far more popular candidate for President in Al Smith than it has now in Gov. Roosevelt. And President Hoover carried the State without a struggle, even though the Democrats won in the State elections.

"I find in my travels that President Hoover is gaining strength throughout the country and that he should have little trouble winning by a greater majority than he did four years ago."

Both Whitman, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor and also for United States senator, and Mrs. Yost conferred with Republican leaders at Eastern headquarters.

Assistant Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison, who is an active gubernatorial candidate conferred there yesterday but it was said that neither he nor Whitman discussed the gubernatorial situation.

Mrs. Yost discussed her phase of the campaign with Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore, chairman of women's activities in the twelve Eastern States, and with Mrs. George Wyeth, president of the Women's National Republican Club.

"The multitudes of women who were with the President four years ago," she said, "are still with him. * * * Since the renomination of the President, the women have renewed their activities and are vigorously organizing in his support."

G.O.P. in South Carolina Names House Candidates

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Republican candidates for Congress in each of South Carolina's six districts were nominated by the State executive committee today, marking the first time in many years the party has offered a full slate. Nomination of a candidate for the United States Senate was deferred.

Congressional candidates were named as follows: First District, D. C. Sharp, of Allendale; Second, Dallas A. Gardner, of Orangeburg, State chairman; Third, T. Frank McCord, of Greenwood; Fourth, J. G. Jones, of Spartanburg; Fifth, Dr. G. M. Williams, of Rock Hill, and Sixth, C. B. Ruffin, of Bishopville.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Denver, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The American Chemical Society turned from technical discussions to consideration of economic conditions at its closing convention session today and adopted a proposal for a widespread campaign for reduction of unemployment of chemists in the United States. Eighty local organizations of the society will work through a national clearing house.

San Francisco, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Olive Clark Day, convicted in Los Angeles on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors in the "girl market" case there, won a new trial today in the State Supreme Court. Mrs. Day had asked the appellate court to reverse the superior court's refusal of a new trial, contending she had been held in a hotel under guard without a warrant from February 25 to March 2. It was contended this amounted to coercion and made her confession valueless as evidence. The appellate court agreed.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—J. W. Garrow, of Houston, chairman of the economics committee of the American Cotton Shippers Association, issued a statement here today saying: "Unless the Government gets out of the cotton business I can see no hope for the cotton farmers of the South."

Point Barrow, Alaska, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Twenty-five Eskimos who went out to board the "ghost ship" Baychino early in the week were still missing today, and the shifting ice has again carried the vessel out of sight. Two other searching parties sent back word they had not found the ship.

Laramie, Wyo., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Senator John B. Kendrick (Democrat), Wyoming, was awarded an honorary degree of doctor of laws by the University of Wyoming at the annual summer school commencement ceremonies here today. It was the third honorary degree granted in the university's history.

Manhattan, Kans., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—There will be no dates at the chapter house of Delta Zeta Sorority, Kansas State College, this school year. The house will be closed because, says Mrs. F. M. Taddleford, local alumna, all members who didn't graduate last spring have jobs and will not be in school.

POPE BOLTS PARTY IN TENNESSEE RACE

Loser in Contest After Primary Will Run as "White Democrat."

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 25 (U.P.).—Tennessee's complex political picture became more so today with announcement that Lewis S. Pope, defeated in the primary by Hill McAlister by 10,000 votes and loser in a contest before the primary board yesterday, would oppose McAlister in November's general ballot.

Pope plans, according to his manager, Sam W. Carmack, to stump the State as "nominee for governor of the white Democrats of Tennessee."

The contest yesterday, that began at 9 o'clock in the morning and ended shortly before midnight, was based on charges that a machine controlled by Representative Ed Crump illegally voted 15,000 Negroes for McAlister in Memphis, to give him his 10,000 vote majority. The board voted, 31 to 7, to uphold McAlister.

"Entry of Pope will make the governor's race a heated one. John E. McCall, former national commander of the American Legion, was nominated by the Republicans, who dominate East Tennessee. Some fear has been expressed by political observers that the Pope-McAlister fight may split the party and throw a number of votes to the Republican nominee.

Doctor's Many "Babies" Gather for Reunion

Mulvane, Kas., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Dr. S. T. Shelly, who came to Mulvane on horseback in 1880, was host today to nearly a thousand of the 4,500 "babies" he has since helped usher into the world.

A week ago the poineer physician, now 76 years old, sent out a blanket invitation for all of the 4,500 to attend a reception here. Today the doctor's well wishers gathered. Grayhaired grandmothers and grandfathers vied with twins born three weeks ago to Mr. and Mrs. Bert Roby, nearby farm folk, in honoring their earthly sponsor.

ROOSEVELT PLEA FOR FUNDS SAYS PARTY "IS NOT FOR SALE"

tration; that he was bossed or controlled by either or both Tammany and big business.

"In short, he has been a normal, able, conscientious, just and intelligent executive. He has fought corruption at every turn and has been his own man every day of his long public service.

"He is, I understand, a man of substantial property, but of no great wealth, but his own circumstances have never dulled his sympathy with and his understanding of those less fortunately placed.

"His political opinions are liberal, but their liberalism has never moved him to be disregardful of the rights of business and business men.

"Best Balanced Man."

"If there is a better balanced man in public life today than the Governor of New York, I have never met such a one."

Former Gov. Byrd said that "unfortunately, from the financial standpoint, the Democratic party is at a disadvantage in the matter of wealthy contributors to its campaign treasury."

"We must largely depend upon the rank and file of the Democratic party for financial support with which to make a successful campaign. * * *

"We do not wish, and you can not permit, a few wealthy partisans to shoulder the load alone. * * * It is an unhealthy and an undesirable situation for a few rich men and women * * * to deny * * * the opportunity of the great mass of people, eager to help, a share in the financing of your campaign."

Gov. Roosevelt said he felt "neither embarrassment nor reluctance", in asking for party contributions, "because I am asking you to join in a great cause—a cause that goes deeply into the things that make life worth living."

He said he was appealing "in behalf of what is much more than a political campaign."

"It is a cooperative effort participated in by Democrats and Republicans alike," he continued, "to provide for this country new leadership, new policies, new spirit in Government. Under our system the only way to do this is through presidential election."

"Our battle is essentially on behalf of the plain citizen—the average citizen," he said, "and I would like to feel that every one of those citizens, regardless of his or her political affiliations, should assume the position of a shareholder in the common enterprise and that his or her contribution should represent an investment that is to return dividends of good government.

"In what I have seen of the management of campaigns, of both parties, it has been made apparent that in the heat of the campaign there was much waste of money and much useless ballyhoo.

"This year it is my firm belief that by careful and economical management much of this can be eliminated and we can get satisfactory results with less money.

"Therefore I believe that a campaign fund on the basis of former campaigns is not necessary, and if it were necessary we could not get it now."

Asks Advice of Hearers.

He also asked for reports from his hearers on "the situation in your part of the country; what you think we ought to do and how you think we are conducting the campaign."

At Albany and at national headquarters, he said, "all feel * * * that the advantage is on our side; that the Nation is pretty well set to change administrations."

"If the political situation favors us," he concluded, "we must see to it that it is not upset by anything our resourceful adversaries may do. This is going to require vigilance, constant organization, constant circulation of our principles and of our arguments, for we must not, because of our present confidence, make the mistake of leaving a single outpost unguarded."

EUGENE C. GOTT, President

An

OPEN LETTER

to The Honorable

ROY D. CHAPIN

Secretary of Commerce

SIR:

In answer to the appeal you have made to American business and business men for courage, foresight and faith in this Country and its future, I am happy to inform you of a decision which may help to "turn the tide in the right direction."

Our Company has, today, issued instructions to its Purchasing Department to buy immediately four million five hundred thousand dollars worth of raw material and supplies for use the balance of this year. And, in addition, wherever possible at present prices, contracts are to be placed covering all our requirements for the entire year of 1933, such contracts to be based upon an anticipated business increase of 25% over our 1932 requirements.

In taking this step we are motivated by the desire to sell our products by helping to increase general business activity; also, by the desire to take advantage of current prices of raw materials, many of which are the lowest in our 55 years of business history.

Coming in advance of the conference of business and industrial leaders whom the President has called to convene this Friday, it is my hope and that of my associates that this letter will help to show that American business is ready to prove by action instead of word that it has the courage, foresight and faith for which you appeal.

Respectfully,

JAMES H. RAND, Jr. (signed)

President and Chairman of the Board

DERBY LEAD IS KEPT BY LENOX AND HUNT

66 of 100 Planes Arrive in East St. Louis From Jefferson City.

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Sixty-six of the approximately 100 airplanes originally entered in the transcontinental air derby had arrived at Parks Airport early tonight, with Eldon Cessna, of Wichita, Kans., winning the leg of the race from Jefferson City by only a fraction of a second.

The wheels of Cessna's plane had scarcely touched the ground when Roy Hunt, of Norman, Okla., crossed the finish line. A few moments behind the leaders the other planes of the Western flight arrived in quick succession.

The first plane of the Eastern division to arrive was that of S. C. Huffman, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and the second arrival in this flight was Doug Davis, of Atlanta, Ga. Chappy Lenox, of New Havan, who landed fourth in the Eastern division, continued to lead in points, with a total of 976.3.

Roy Hunt maintained his lead in the Western division with a total of 1,456 points.

Olean, N. Y., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A protest against the disqualification of John F. Tuohy, jr., Olean entrant in the cross-country Washington-Cleveland Air Derby, was forwarded to officials of the Cleveland air races today by a group of Olean citizens.

Tuohy was disqualified at Jackson, Miss., yesterday by official scorers, who announced he had changed the propeller of his plane at Augusta, Ga. The change, they said, increased the speed of his ship.

The protest was made, it was said, on the grounds that the change was sanctioned by the race officials and that Tuohy should have been disqualified at Augusta rather than Jackson, where he had taken the lead in the derby.

Contractor Here Gets $400,000 Church Job

John J. Earley, Washington contractor, has been awarded a $400,000 contract for preliminary work on the exterior ornamentation of the Baha'i Temple of Worship at Wilmette, Ill. The local contractor did ornamental work on the Church of the Sacred Heart here as well as the Ambulatory of the Monastery, besides similar work on notable structures in other cities.

A special type of architectural concrete, developed by Mr. Earley, possessing unusual plastic qualities and unusual responsiveness to color graduation, will be used. The Research Service, Inc., of this city, are representatives of the Temple trustees, and have general supervision of the work.

Alexandria Man Asks $10,000 Fall Damages

Charles Roberts, of Alexandria, Va., yesterday filed suit in the District Supreme Court against the Park Transfer Co., for $10,000 damages.

Through Attorney James E. McCabe, Roberts alleged that he had been seriously hurt when he fell over a pile of debris in the Internal Revenue Building where he was employed in 1929. The transfer company had contracted to remove the debris, he said.

2 U. S. AIRMEN ARE FAR ASEA ON NORWAY FLIGHT ATTEMPT

5:02, Eastern standard time, this morning. Clear skies were overhead at the take-off and a tail wind pushed them along toward their goal. Hours later no word of their progress had been received from ships at sea. Although the weather was favorable here, it was expected Lee and Bochkon would have to battle a rainstorm about 600 miles off Newfoundland. Otherwise, weather reports indicated they should have clear weather to Europe.

The 3,150-mile route laid out by the aviators would carry them over Dublin, Ireland; Boston, England, and Cuxhaven, Germany. They carried gasoline sufficient for 37 hours of flying, or seven hours longer than they estimated would be necessary for completion of the hop. The first leg of the flight was begun at the Barre-Montpelier, Vt., Airport Tuesday.

Lee, 24-year-old former barnstorming flier, was pilot-commander of the flight with Bochkon as copilot. It was his first venture in ocean flying, although he has had about nine years' experience in aviation.

Bochkon, who is 29 years old, and like Lee, unmarried, is a former member of the Norwegian Flying Corps.

Landfall on the Norwegian Coast will mean a return to the homeland for him after an absence of several years.

Small Group Sees Takeoff.

Only a small gathering of Harbor Grace residents was on hand when Lee and Bochkon said their adieux. The two fliers spent about an hour warming up their motor and making a last-minute check in equipment and supplies.

Although confident they will bring the Green Mountain boy down safely in Norway, Lee and Bochkon were prepared for a sea landing. The plane's cabin doors were sealed to make room for emergency gasoline tanks and a hole was cut through the roof to permit entrance and exit. It was hoped that in the event of a sea landing the empty gasoline tanks would keep the craft afloat, at least until time permitted Lee and Bochkon to cut the motor away from the body. A hacksaw was carried as a part of the equipment for use if such a step became necessary.

The first leg of the flight was marred by a forced landing at Purgeo Beach where they remained overnight in the ship, coming here yesterday.

The same storm that forced Lee and Bochkon down at Burgeo was responsible for Thor Solberg and Carl Peterson, who flew from New York Tuesday, also intent upon a flight to Oslo, remaining behind today at Darby's Harbour, Placentia Bay. Their plane was wrecked when it plunged into the bay there Tuesday night. The ship was towed ashore by fishermen and will be dismantled.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Futnam, a tired but cheerful aviatrix in brown jodhpurs and a leather jacket landed at Newark airport today, completing the first nonstop spanning of the continent ever made by a woman flier.

Succeeding where she had failed once before, the young woman brought her crimson and gold high wing Lockheed Vega monoplane down in a perfect three-point landing at 10:31 a. m. (Eastern standard time), exactly 19 hours 4 minutes 6 seconds after her hop-off from Los Angeles.

Sets Two Records.

Tucked in the cockpit with her, Mrs. Putnam carried two new aviation records: A transcontinental speed mark for women, and a new distance flight record for women. In making the new distance record, Mrs. Putnam surpassed the previous standard of Miss Ruth Nichols by several hundred miles. Miss Nichols set her mark of 2,000 miles on a nonstop jaunt from Oakland, Calif., to Louisville, Ky.

"It was a beautiful trip," the aviatrix said after she landed. "If I had the weather I had on my first attempt (referring to the transcontinental attempt that ended at Columbus because of a faulty gas line), I would have broken the record."

The record she spoke of is Capt. Frank Hawk's nonstop transcontinental time of 17 hours 39 minutes 59 seconds.

New York Scotsman's Heaven, Says Mollison

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Several speakers at a luncheon today in honor of Capt. James A. Mollison, Scotch transatlantic flier, referred to the fact that he had only 67 cents in his pocket when he landed in Canada.

When it came his turn to speak the flier, with a smile, said in closing:

"I still have the same 67 cents, so I think New York must be a real Scotsman's paradise."

WALKER PROBE SPECTATORS THREATENED WITH EXPULSION

have any applause at this hearing. I shall have to exclude the public if there is any more."

A few seconds later, Mr. Roosevelt's face became white and he shook his finger at Hilly as he questioned him about fee splitting.

"Do you consider it to the interest of the city for doctors to split fees," he inquired. "Answer 'yes' or 'no.'"

"I'd have to know the circumstances," Hilly replied.

"Do you want to make that your final answer," Mr. Roosevelt said in a sharp tone, pointing his finger at the witness.

"Yes," said Hilly.

A Republican, Supreme Court Justice Charles C. Lockwood, previously told Gov. Roosevelt he had "the greatest faith in the integrity of Mayor Walker after a friendship of 20 years."

Walker, a Democrat and a member of Tammany Hall, claims the ouster move was originated by Republicans for political motives.

Lockwood, a former State senator and one-time candidate for lieutenant governor, appeared as a character witness for the New York mayor who Samuel Seabury said should be removed because he misused his office.

Seabury asked Justice Lockwood, who said he had read newspaper accounts of the Walker investigation, if they "changed your idea of the integrity of Mayor Walker?"

"Not in the slightest," the jurist replied.

Lockwood's brief appearance at the day's session was the only bit of color in a dull routine review of the Equitable Coach Co's franchise. Seabury claims Walker influenced the granting of the franchise to aid a friend, State Senator John A. Hastings, and in return for financial rewards.

John H. Delaney, chairman of the city board of transportation, was on the stand several hours, resuming where he left off at last night's session.

The gist of his testimony, and he held to it under a sharp cross examination by Seabury, was that the Equitable Co.'s bid for a bus franchise was the best received. He said the board recommended a franchise, believing that financial backing was assured.

Leon G. Godley, a member of the State Transit Commission, said the franchise was revoked because the commission was not satisfied with the Equitable's financing.

William G. Fuller, chairman of the commission, said Mayor Walker never had approached him concerning the bus transaction.

LEAGUE ACTION SNUB BY JAPANESE SEEN

vious statements and indicated that Japan proposes to handle the situation as it sees fit.

In other words, the Council of the League of Nations, when it meets on September 23, will have to discuss Manchukuo which is a government recognized by Japan and in Japan's opinion no longer a part of China, regardless of what the Lytton commission may report as to whether Manchurians really wanted and created the so-called independent republic.

Foreign Minister Uchida especially emphasized the Japanese claim that the island empire was forced to take military action at Mukden in self-defense on September 18 of last year and that its national existence was threatened by the attacks the Chinese made on its interests and rights in Manchuria.

There is reason to believe from advance reports on the Lytton commission's findings that they will not support the Japanese contention that Japan acted in self-defense at Mukden and did not use its military forces to encourage the creation of the new independent government.

Consequently when the League of Nations considers the Lytton report it will probably face another important decision such as it had when it joined the United States in advising Japan that gains made by aggression in violation of treaty rights will not be recognized by the members of the league.

The smaller nations belonging to the league are unanimous in their support of this doctrine, but Great Britain, France and other larger powers are more cautious.

Juan Carlos, third son of former King Alfonso, on the vacated throne in the short-lived revolt of two weeks ago which led to the occupation of Seville for a few hours and bloodshed in the streets of Madrid.

The eight civil and military judges after 20 hours of debate pronounced the verdicts without recommendations of mercy and submitted their findings to the cabinet for final review in accordance with Spanish law.

Premier Manuel Azana, emerging from a stormy session of the ministry, announced to a Chamber of Deputies tense with waiting, that the government had decided to petition President Alcala Zamora to commute Gen. Sanjurjo's penalty to life behind the bars. The president signed the commutation papers a short while later.

Immediately on his announcement pandemonium reigned in the chamber. Waves of applause rolled in from the rightist sections. Shouts of resentment came from the radical groups. A number of incipient fisticuffs broke out among the deputies. Police took a firmer hold on their weapons.

The radical Socialists, strongest opponents of the government, announced they woud take prompt action against the cabinet's decision and trooped out to hold a meeting. Their representatives in the cabinet, Minister of Justice Albornez and Minister of Agriculture Domingo, were reported ready to resign.

Manifestations against the clemency edict were held in several parts of the city. Troops surrounding the military prison in which the defendants were confined dispersed several groups of agitators. Another outburst was put down in Puerta del Sol, the Times Square of Madrid.

Move to Avoid British Cotton Strike Failure

Manchester, England, Aug. 25 (U.P.).—A final attempt at peace negotiations between workers and employers collapsed tonight and the shadow of a general strike starting Saturday closed down on Lancashire, home of Great Britain's vast cotton industry.

More than 200,000 operatives are prepared to walk out Saturday rather than accept the employers' demand for a 10 per cent wage cut.

THIRD DEGREE TRIAL STORY IS UNDER FIRE

Tale of Torture Treated as Joke, State's Aid Says Under Grilling.

Mineola, N. Y., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A witness in the "third degree" trial of five Nassau County policemen today quoted one of the defendants as saying he had stood on the prostrate form of a prisoner and rocked back and fourth.

Martin W. Littleton, jr., assistant district attorney and the youthful son of a famous lawyer, was the witness. He pointed out Deputy Chief Frank J. Tappen, one of the five men charged with beating Hyman Stark to death, and told of an alleged conversation he had with Tappen at about the time when Stark, suspected of robbery and an attack on a policeman's mother, was being questioned.

Witness' Story Attacked.

Tappen, who weights 240 pounds, was quoted by Littleton as saying:

"That's the toughest guy I ever saw. I had to put one foot on his stomach and the other on his throat and I rocked back and forth and it didn't feaze him."

Tappen has denied ever making the remark and defense counsel immediately began a systematic attack on Littleton's story.

Medical testimony introduced earlier attributed Stark's death to a double fracture of the larynx.

Tappen looked closely at Littleton during the latter's recital, but their eyes did not meet.

Says He "Just Smiled."

Under cross-examination by John M. Levy, Littleton said he "just smiled" at Tappen's alleged remark and thought little of it. He had warned the police against "third degree" methods, he said.

"And was Tappen smiling, too," Levy asked.

"Yes, he was grinning all through it," Littleton replied.

"So that the whole thing was in the nature of a joke?"

"Yes."

It was not until later, the young prosecutor said, he learned Stark had been fatally injured.

Navy Flier Hurt Slightly in Crash

Lieut. C. R. Brown Forced Down on Farm Near Herndon.

Special to The Washington Post.

Herndon, Va., Aug. 25.—Lieut. C. R. Brown, attached to the United States Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, flying a Government plane from Wheeling, W. Va., to Washington, was forced down last night on the Henry Piggott farm, about a mile east of Herndon, by lack of gasoline.

He obtained gasoline in Herndon and started again to fly to Washington. His motor failed when the plane had risen about 50 feet, and he was forced to make a quick landing. When it hit the ground the plane nosed over, throwing him from the cockpit. He was cut and bruised on the head and shoulders. Dr. E. C. Shull, of Herndon, treated him.

Lieut. Brown remained in Herndon overnight and supervised the removal of the plane this morning. It was taken to Washington by truck. Damage to the plane was estimated at $2,000.

Newspaper Sales Aid Told to Club

Advantages in Type of Publicity Explained to Advertising Group.

The peculiar advantages of newspaper advertising as compared with other forms of publicity were explained to members of the Advertising Club of Washington at a luncheon at the Raleigh Hotel yesterday.

The speakers were Walter Coates, assistant advertising manger of the Evening Star; Charles Nicholson, advertising manger of the Washington Daily News; George Barrows, promotion mangaer of The Washington Post, and Frank C. Wheeler, advertising director of the Washington Times and Herald.

At subsequent meetings representatives of other types of advertising mediums will be given an opportunity to discuss the various features that distinguish their methods of placing sales messages before the buying public.

Compromise Is Denied After Phone Rate Parley

Lloyd B. Wilson, president, and Robert V. Fleming, director of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., yesterday afternoon called on Maj. Gen. Mason M Patrick and Riley Elgin, of the Public Utilities Commission, and discussed the pending telephone rate inquiry for an hour.

At the conclusion of the conference, Gen. Patrick denied that there had been any talk of compromise. He said the discussion dealt generally with the questions of valuation and evidence offered at the hearing, which will be resumed on Monday. William A. Roberts, special counsel of the commission, went to New York yesterday presumably to check on certain data offered by the telephone company.

Bad Weather Halts Flying Hutchinsons

Delays Hop to Labrador; Islanders Are Excited by Visit.

Port Menier, Anticosti Island, Quebec, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Adverse weather reports prevented the flying Hutchinsons from taking off for Labrador today in continuation of their leisurely flight to Europe by the Greenland route.

The visit of the party of air travelers—which includes Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchinson, their two young daughters and a crew of four men—gratified the residents of this lonely island. The two children had an enjoyable time with the tame deer that are common hereabouts.

The Hutchinsons brought their large amphibian down in the harbor yesterday afternoon after an easy trip from St. John, New Brunswick, their first stop out of New York. After they get to the Labrador coast they will make a 600-mile water jump to Greenland.

Bonds of Arcade Sold at Auction

$1,105,000 Amount Bring $656,000 Without Competitive Bidding.

First mortgage bonds of the Washington Arcade Co. in the amount of $1,105,000 were sold at auction yesterday in the office of Vernon G. Owen, auctioneer, 1431 I street northwest, for $656,000. Although Harry M. Crandall, pioneer moving picture magnate of Washington, filed suit last week to enjoin the sale and a hearing was postponed from August 23 to September 2, the auction was held on the theory that as no injunction had been granted, no legal stoppage existed.

The bonds of the company operating the Arcade Building, near Fourteenth street and Park road northwest, were held by various banks and companies as collateral security on Mr. Crandall's notes, aggregating $938,000. The bonds were sold in seven lots without competitive bidding.

All-Day Outing Enjoyed By Party of Kiwanians

More than 80 members of the Washington Kiwanis Club yesterday journeyed to Bay Ridge, Md., for an all-day outing. The group remained throughout the day and were entertained last night with singing and amusement features.

Earlier in the day Edwin F. Hill, president of the club, conducted an educational meeting in Baltimore before going to Bay Ridge to join the gathering. A meeting was held at noon yesterday in the Raleigh Hotel for members unable to attend the outing.

Mrs. Herndon Dies; Leader in D. A. R.

Former Regent of Parent Chapter Will Be Buried Privately Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice Grant Herndon, former regent of Mary Washington Chapter, D. A. R., parent chapter of the organization, who died Wednesday at her summer home, Woods Edge, East Falls Church, Va., will be held tomorrow at that home. Interment will be private. Mrs. Herndon, for many years a resident of this city, although born in Burlington, N. J., had been ill for some time.

Mrs. Herndon was active for many years in D. A. R. work and was prominent in activities leading to the construction of Constitution Hall. She was a close friend of Mrs. Eleanor Washington Howard, of this city, last of the Washingtons alive who was born at Mount Vernon.

Surviving Mrs. Herndon is her husband, Eugene G. Herndon, who is connected with the Navy Department in the capacity of a civilian engineer. The Herndons lived at the Woodley, 1851 Columbia road northwest.

MINERS IN RETREAT AFTER BITTER CLASH

Six Sent to Hospitals While Several Cars Are Riddled in Southern Illinois.

Coulterville, Ill., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Vanquished, with several automobiles battered and bullet-torn, the bedraggled remnants of a 9-mile motorcade—the striking miners' big push into the operating southern Illinois mine fields—tonight filtered home with orders not to attempt a similar invasion.

The orders came from Chief Walter Moody, of the State highway police, who directed evacuation of Coulterville, where about 4,000 strikers gathered for a mass meeting today to determine a policy after the cavalcade was routed by clubs, pistol, machine gun and shotgun fire by nearly 300 deputies near the Franklin County line last night.

About 100 strikers suffered clubbed heads. Only six were found badly enough hurt to warrant hospital treatment. Two had gunshot wounds of minor consequence, authorities said.

After the melee near Mulkeytown, in Franklin County, the invaders were turned back through Duquoin and headed north. Several spent the night sleeping in cars or wrapped in blankets on the ground near Pinckneyville and Coulterville. A majority apparently journeyed homeward last night.

Moody appeared here about 10:30 a. m. today with about 40 subordinates. Cars and trucks were massed near a park where speakers addressed the miners in a mass meeting. A policy committee had been appointed to determine if the strikers were to go back to Franklin County to attempt to persuade working miners to strike because of the $5 wage scale, supplanting a $6.10 agreement terminating last March.

Before the policy committee made its report Moody's men already started trucks and cars out of the town. A few State police led the caravan, Moody said, and had orders to see that the cars dispersed.

Film Screen Bar Is Put on Politics

Exhibitors Vote to Ban Propaganda of Both Parties in Battle.

Because of the activities of prominent persons in the moving picture industry on behalf of the Republican and Democratic parties, the Allied States Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors have announced that screens of theaters included in its membership will not be used for political propaganda purposes.

The announcement was made here at the national headquarters of the association by Abram F Myers, chairman of the board. The decision to guard against the possibility of propaganda in the films was made, it was said, because of the efforts of Will H. Hays, of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, and Louis B. Mayer, of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Co., on behalf of the Republican ticket and the prominence of Jack Warner, of Warner Bros., and Frank Walker, of the Publix-Comerford circuit, on the Democratic side.

Insurance Brokers Cited In $500,000 Libel Suit

Eugene Young and Morris Simon, trading as Young & Simon, insurance brokers, yesterday were named defendants in a $500,000 damage suit filed in District Supreme Court. The suit was filed by the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., of the Investment Building, which claimed it had been libeled in a letter allegedly sent out by the brokers. Attorneys Hogan, Donovan, Jones, Hartson and Guider filed the suit.

The alleged libelous statement was contained in a letter sent to policyholders and propective policyholders of the insurance company.

2 Bank Raid Suspects Taken After Gun Fight

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A picture of a former criminal identified by employes of a branch bank in which an attempted holdup yesterday cost the lives of two of the robbers led police today to a rooming house where they captured two men after a revolver fight in which one of the suspects was wounded.

Police said the men captured were George Turcott, who was shot in the arm, and Robert York, believed to be the leader of the band that was put to flight yesterday. Both are former convicts. Two robbers, Frank Alvarado and Henry Younkers, a Negro, were slain by Witsell Ord, bank manager, who drew a weapon from his desk and fired when he was ordered to surrender.

Egan Weeps, But Fails To Keep Wife Off Stand

San Francisco, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—While Frank J. Egan wept and protested he didn't want her to testify, his wife, Mrs. Lorraine Kip Egan, took the witness stand late today to join in the defense battle to save her husband and Albert Tinnin from the gallows for the murder of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes.

Mrs. Egan testified she and her small son met the former public defender outside of his office at about 5:25 p. m., April 29, and drove with him to the beach. The prosecution previously had charged Egan was seen walking near the Hughes home shortly after 5 o'clock that afternoon.

18 RAILROADS SHOW CAR LOADING GAINS

310 Resume Work in Mills of West; $4,500,000 Listed for Materials.

(Associated Press.)

Developments in the business world yesterday included:

Chicago—With eighteen railroads reporting increased freight business, leaders of the rail industry predicted car loading reports for last week would show an increase of 10,000 cars. Railroad traffic increased only 1 per cent, or about 5,000 cars, in the same period last year.

New York—The American Writing Paper Co. reported orders for the first 20 days of August were 50 per cent higher than those in the same period of July. Total business was 2,700,000 pounds, against 1,800,000 for the July period.

Chicago—Only 74 banks have been closed so far this month, compared with 177 for August, 1931, Rand-McNally & Co reported. An increase in bank reopenings also was reported.

Chicago — Commonwealth-Edison Co. issued a statement predicting an increase in power production for the Chicago area. The forecast was based on reports of industrial concerns planning to resume or increase operation.

Oregon City, Oreg.—Two hundred employes of the Oregon City Woolen Mills, idle since the plant was shut down early this year, returned to their jobs. Others will return next week. A. R. Jacobs, president of the company, said two divisions of the mill will be kept steadily at work manufacturing men's suits, overcoats and topcoats.

Independence, Kas.—C. M. Carman, manager, announced the Universal Atlas Cement Plant here will begin operations in all departments September 1, furnishing employment to 110 men. The company hopes to operate steadily until January 1 and perhaps throughout the winter.

New York—Hoping it may help to "turn the tide in the right direction," James H. Rand, jr., president of Remington Rand, Inc., has just announced that his company will buy immediately $4,500,000 worth of raw materials and supplies for use the balance of this year.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Rome, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Italy's only battleships, the Andrea Doria and Duilio, turned from the sea today and put into port, where they will be stripped of their crews and retired from service. This is by the order recently issued for retirement of 130,000 tons of naval vessels, including three heavy cruisers and a number of lighter craft.

Berlin, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Prof. Albert Einstein, it was announced today, has accepted appointment as a life member of the staff of the institute for advanced study in the United States. A condition is that his work with the institute will require his presence in the United States for only five months of the year, leaving him free to spend the rest of the time in Germany.

Winnipeg, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, British secretary for colonies, said today he believed there will be a general reduction of tariffs leading to freer trade throughout the world as a result of the recent imperial economic conference at Ottawa. Sir Philip is on the way to the Pacific Coast with several members of Parliament.

Barcelona, Spain, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Carlos of Hapsburg de Bourbon, Archduke of Austria and brother of Archduke Anton, was arrested today for driving an automobile bearing the Bourbon royal crown on the door. The appearance of the car caused a demonstration when he parked it in a downtown street. The archduke has lived here since the World War.

Paris, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The official journal today published a decree outlining 5 per cent economies for all government ministries as part of a campaign to balance the budget.

London, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—In the presence of the papal legate, Francis Cardinal Bourne, and many foreign bishops and abbots, the rebuilt Buckfast Abbey was consecrated today, after 25 years of steady labor by the Benedictine Monks. This was the first consecration of its kind in England since the reformation, 400 years ago. Cardinal Bourne's sermon was broadcast.

Winnipeg, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—John A. Machray, prominent in religious and educational circles in western Canada, chairman of the board of governors of the University of Manitoba, was held in $50,000 bail today on a charge of misappropriating $47,451.37 of the university's funds.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Dressmaker touches are increasingly smart in sweaters—the new sweaters are really lacy woolen blouses. Here are some of the very latest fall sweater blouses. (Selected in New York shops.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Something decidedly new has happened to sweaters. I must tell you that last year's sweater is as antiquated as the ark, my deah—but never you mind, I'm going to tell you what to do about it, too!

Sweaters have become something that they ain't—as it were. They just tired of being practical and started trying out this and that little bit of trimming, this and that flutter, usually borrowed from their stepsister, the blouse, until they finally became so blouse-like that you can't tell what is sweater and what is blouse this fall!

Best to just say that sweaters have become woolen blouses, really. Incorporating all the details that we associate with blouses—hand faggotting, hemstitching, jabots, ruffles—oh, every sort of a blouse touch! Look at the sweater I have illustrated for you in the upper left of this page, for instance, which was of white boucle, with drop-stitch striping, and a darling silk scarf running in and out of the neck decolletage to give it quite a blouselike effect. See what I mean when I say that sweaters have gone blousy?

I liked the one that I sketched for you at the lower left, too. This was so dressy—as dressy as a sweater can be, really, and still be a sweater. This was what is called an alpaca knit on link and link machine—if that tells you anything. And the color assortment of the knit was nice, too, as well as the capelet effect and the tie collar.

Above is a whimsey in red, white and blue—puff sleeves and all—and in the center a pastel shade of crochet sweater jacket which must be worn over a blouse or waist, and which is very reminiscent of the old hug-me-tight that grandmother wore. All in all, I should say that sweaters are certainly new, this fall!

• • • •

Now we have brilliantly colored hosiery matching our evening shoes! But don't, dahr-lings, go out looking for ruby red—the smartest color—in stockings, because you won't find it! Alas, you must buy a nice palely tinted sock, and send it to be dyed, at great peril to both said sock and your pocketbook. Yet one must! Because brilliantly colored stockings matching brilliantly colored pumps, and worn with especially white or black evening gowns, are new and smart and really stunning.

If you want pale blue, or green, or yellow or mauve, then of course you can find them already tinted, in good hosiery shops. But 'tis the brilliant colors that are the most stylish, remember.

I tell you, it's the collar that makes the dress! How often have I seen a Paris gown, my deah, that proudly wore a collar which was valued just twice as highly as the gown—in price? All because it's so undeniably elegant and luxurious and discreetly extravagant to put a hand-made and infinitely stitched—yes, infinitely, millyuns and millyuns of tiny stitches—collar on a dress sufficiently well cut and in the proper color to display it!

That's why I made you a leaflet this week telling you how to go about making different and new collars, knowing that clever fingers have many spare minutes in which to make such things, and that you would be pleased to know how to make new and dainty things for your fall wardrobe, in your spare finger time. So better just send your stamped, self addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, for this week's illustrated leaflet—before your forget it!

Au revoir.

PSYCHIC BIDDING WITH A PURPOSE.

I RECENTLY read an article by a well-known Bridge writer, in which psychic bidding was condemned as detracting from the scientific character of the game. This attitude seems to indicate that an essential point has been missed. Contract Bridge is or should be a supreme battle of wits, and the psychic bid is the acid test of the quality of those wits. Against opponents whose Bridge mentality is first-class, the psychic bid will probably come to grief; against any others it is likely to succeed.

There seems, moreover, to be some misunderstanding as to the exact nature of a psychic bid. For instance, the writer of a recent article refers to a bid of one spade on six to the Queen as a psychic bid, one diamond having been bid on his right. Yet another scribe refers to a bid of three hearts on six to the King-Knave-Ten as psychic, the partner having bid one notrump. In both cases the hands certainly contained no other cards of value—yet to regard such bids as these as representative psychics is absurd.

East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

West opened the King of clubs, which South ruffed. South then led the King of trumps, East covered with the Ace. Another club was led, South ruffed, cleared the trumps (entering Dummy on the fifth trick) and played the heart finesse, thus losing only 4 tricks—a spade, a heart and two diamonds—and making game and rubber.

How different the result had South's hand been bid in the usual straightforward manner! A glance at the opponents' hands will show that they held a "sitting" game in either diamonds, clubs or notrump. And the reason that, instead of making the game, they "doubled South out" was just that fraction of difference in mentality, which means so much in Contract. West saw nothing in the bids of three clubs and three diamonds except glorious opportunities of exacting penalties. He did not reflect this way: "Now, I know South to be a reasonably good player. Having regard to my partner's bid and my own holding, these bids can not possibly be sound and we are probably therefore, not genuine at all. South has something good up his sleeve and I had better lie low and await developments."

Nor did anything of the kind occur to East. His position was, however, more difficult, since he had no idea of his partner's great strength in clubs and diamonds. He had, in fact, no reasonably good second bid to make, and, having regard to the cards he held, this position well illustrates the beauty of psychic bids.

But, of course, the really exquisite quality of the latter is most clearly brought out by the fact that East and West were absolutely barred from bidding the game they held between them because their mentality was not of sufficient caliber to grasp the full significance of the bidding. Thus was a real "battle of wits" decided.

Today's Pointer.

Much has been written about so-called "psychic" bidding, which in most instances covers a multitude of sins. True psychological bidding is of an entirely different type and is based on a thorough understanding of the psychology of the opposing players.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"VIRGO."

IF August 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:15 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:40 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:35 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:20 p. m.

A "don't care" spirit will be engendered by planetary conditions on August 26. It would be well to remember that life is like a game of ball, it is the slips that catch us out, and try not to abandon all caution and care. Not a fortunate period for new businesses which should receive every attention.

The child born on this August 26 will have two separate natures to present to the world. The one is charming and admirable; the other is moody and discourteous. It will have a good intellect, but may never make constructive use of it. Its physical requirements and upbuilding should not be neglected.

You must fight against being taken in by appearances, if born August 26 — it is not the shorts that make the long distance runner. You need to increase your ability to judge human nature, rightly; it will help you in all capacities of life, and prevent you from getting "crushes" on the wrong sort of people. Your mercurial disposition makes it difficult for you to ring true. Your enthusiasms of today may be your aversions of tomorrow. There are times when you get bored with yourself and your nearest associates, and it would be difficult for anyone to place themselves in harmony with your adverse mood.

You will usually have many things in hand at the same time. "Between two stools," you will often come to the ground, but will eventually achieve no inferior position in life. Disappointment and tardiness in love affairs is shown. Two marriages or one legal wife or husband, and a second attachment, are indicated. You are a persuasive talker when you are interested, and at other times you are painfully "dumb." You are very confiding where you give your affection or trust, and it is always necessary for you to have some sympathetic ear to which you can run with your secret thoughts.

Successful people born on August 26:

Alfred Beltman, lawyer.
Leonard Metcalf, civil engineer.
James Couzens, former director of Ford Co., England.
Ruth Roland, film star.
August Hecksher, capitalist.
James Harlan, lawyer and senator.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

My Impressions of Bette Davis.

PERHAPS you have seen her in "The Man Who Played God" and perhaps you know that it is no small honor to play opposite that renowned actor George Arliss. Bette Davis, one of Warner's leading ladies, looks a great deal like Constance Bennett (I never knew that until I saw her in person) but has a very different personality. The only thing they have in common is their ability to wear clothes beautifully; blue eyes, light blonde hair, a white, pale, perfect, enviable complexion without a flaw.

Would you like to wander from our beauty lesson with me to the former Charlie Farrell House on Toluca Lake, a little artificial lake with many well-known movie stars living all around it, and you can't see it unless you are visiting one of the houses, as the terraces are built down to the lake edge. The house is indeed a fair setting for Bette's beauty, gives one the impression of being the low rambling type, with a bit of lawn and trees in front and grass-terraced right down to the water's edge, the little cement boat landing, the weeping willow trees at the edge, the white swans on the lake.

Bette is an old Bostonian, you know, played with the Provincetown players. Charlie Farrell is Bostonian, too. The stairway in the living room is lined with ships, sailing vessels, schooners, a model of the Mayflower on the fireplace mantel; in the fireplace a hook with an old pot hanging on it; stenciled lamp shade with a map of Massachusetts and the Cape—home to Bette. Her cook, black as ace of spades and her name Celestine—to add more "color." When I interviewed her, Bette was curled up on a low comfortable window seat, with dozens of cushions, getting inspiration from a view of the lake. A one piece pajama suit of bright red corduroy, a surplice blouse with four huge brass buttons, very wide trousers, sort of slouchy, a red bandana around her throat, sandals, tiny short red socks—all that red so striking with her blonde hair. She usually wears pajamas around studio and home.

No Make-Up.

And now—to our beauty lesson. Miss Davis admits that she tries to spend as much time as possible with no make-up at all on her face; removes it with a good cream and goes around home and out of doors when she can with her face "naked." This she says gives her skin a chance to absorb sun and air and become refreshed when the pores are clean.

For daytime, when she does "make-up"—a bright lipstick, a dab of powder on her nose without a base, just to take off the shininess. Her eyebrows are naturally dark, she uses no eye make-up for daytime but rubs vaseline on her lids—a favorite trick of hers. For evening an almost white powder to match her pale skin, dark mascara. She never wears rouge. At night, thorough cleansing with cream, being particularly careful to cleanse brows and lashes, gentle patting with an astringent and to bed. In the morning, she washes with warm water but no soap. Her favorite out-door hobby? "Swimming and riding, which I do rather well, and golf, which I play badly"—and her eye twinkled mischievously and modestly.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a staamped, self-addressed envelope.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Do you know what to do when a faucet drips, or when it vibrates or makes rattling noises? The trouble is probably that it needs a new washer. Any one who can handle a screw driver and money wrench can change a washer, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture in a bulletin on simple plumbing repairs.

Moderate force on the handle of a faucet in good repair should stop all flow and drip. If a new washer is needed, first shut off the water to the faucet concerned. Unscrew the cap nut with a monkey wrench. Take hold of the faucet handle and unscrew the stem from the body of the faucet. With a screw driver remove the washer screw at the bottom of the stem. This screw is often hard to start. One or two drops of kerosene and lightly tapping the head of the screw may help to loosen it in the stem. Use strong even force on the screw driver. Its blade should have a good square edge to fit the slot.

In case you can not remember readily how to turn a screw: Clockwise to tighten, counter-clockwise to loosen. Small brass screws and stems are easily twisted off and rendered useless, so undue strain should be avoided.

In removing a washer screw, the head often splits before the shank of the screw turns in the stem, because of corroded and weakened condition. If it splits, deepen the slot in the head with a hacksack, cutting a little into the shank of the screw. No harm is done if the saw cuts slightly into the stem of the faucet. The washer stem may now be turned with a small screw driver. Replace the old washer with a new one, replace the washer screw, screw the stem into the faucet, and screw down the cap nut. Hard-fiber composition washers cost only about 10 cents a dozen and are suitable for both hot and cold faucets. Keep a few on hand in the needed sizes. If you have none on hand, cut a temporary washer from a piece of leather, rubber, or sheet packing. Leather is preferable on cold water faucets and rubber on hot.

CHECKS ADMITTED IN DUNCAN'S TRIAL

State Contends They Were Falsely Labeled by Accused Official.

Despite strenuous defense objections, Judge Walter T. McCarthy in Arlington Circuit Court yesterday ruled admissible as evidence several checks said by the prosecution to have been falsely labeled by and drawn payable to the defendant, William H. Duncan, former Arlington County clerk, on trial for alleged misuse of public funds.

The amounts of the checks were not available as they were not formally offered yesterday. Argument over the question of their admissability caused the dismissal of the jury while the court settled the question. They will be presented today.

In the argument before Judge McCarthy, Collins Denny, assistant attorney general of Virginia, said that one of the checks was marked as being a refund on bonds which did not exist. Replying to defense argument that Duncan might have been entitled to draw the money, Denny said, "If he was entitled to draw it out, why should he sit down and falsely label the checks?"

Handwriting Identified.

R. E. Remington, deputy county clerk, testified that the checks were in Duncan's handwriting. He was the last witness to be heard before the jury was excused.

Defense attorneys contended that the checks related to another indictment against Duncan. Denny replied that the checks were brought in to show that at the time they were drawn Duncan was indebted to the county. They were drawn in 1930, he asserted, saying that at the beginning of that year $62,330 was owed the county by Duncan.

M. L. Carnifax, a State auditor, who made the audit of Duncan's account which showed an alleged shortage of $84,000, described the audit on the witness stand. He was not cross-examined. He gave testimony in support of the prosecution's contention that there were alterations in the records of delinquent taxes of 1930 in Duncan's office.

Defense Overruled.

Defense objections were overruled and Carnifax was permitted to testify as to Duncan's bank balances at the end of 1930 and 1931 after deducting the outstanding checks as of the date when the balance was taken.

Commonwealth Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas said last night that the State woud rest its case today. Defense Attorneys Leo P. Harlow and Amos C. Crounse have not indicated whether or not the former clerk will take the stand in his own defense. As the trial is now progressing it is doubtful whether the case will reach the jury before next week.

Mrs. Prosperi, 91; Succumbs Here

Widow of Musician Will Rest Beside Him in Arlington Cemetery.

Mrs. Harriet Elizabeth Prosperi, widow of John F. Prosperi, once prominent musician here, died yesterday in her ninety-second year at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Maurice Otterback, 825 Fifth street southeast. Her son-in-law, Maurice Otterback, is president of the Anacostia Bank.

The death of Mrs. Prosperi came only two days after that of George R. Cook, who died Wednesday and who was a lifelong friend of the Prosperis. Members of Mrs. Prosperi's family said she retained all her faculties up to the time of her death and joked with them yesterday morning about her early awakening habit.

Surviving are, besides Mrs. Otterback, Mrs. Oscar C. Fuller, Mrs. Charles A. Fenner, Mrs. Thomas E. Turtin and Miss Clara Prosperi, all of this city. Mrs. Prosperi was a lifelong member of Trinity M. E. Church. Funeral services had not been decided upon last night, beyond decision for burial of Mrs. Prosperi in Arlington Cemetery beside her husband, who was a veteran of the Civil War.

Man Indicted in Killing.

An indictment charging Frederick Freeman, colored, with the murder of Raleigh Anderson, also colored, on August 3 at 117 Sixteenth street southeast, was returned yesterday by the grand jury. The men had an argument over a card game and Freeman allegedly shot Anderson.

Washington's Descendant Retraces Ancestors' Trails

Texan Arrives in Capital After Visiting Branches of Family in Alabama and Virginia; Trek of Forebears to South Is Vividly Recounted.

W. O. Washington, a collateral descendant of George Washington, backtracking the trail of his great-grandfather and his grandfather, is stopping in Washington after a six-day journey from Texas by automobile which it took his progenitors 35 years to complete.

Mr. Washington, who lives in Brownesville, Tex., traveled over the same route that his ancestors followed 125 years ago, traveling in wagons drawn by oxen. At that time, his great-grandfather, Col. Thomas Pratt Washington, son of Col. William Washington, a cousin of the First President, led his family, including 50 servants, from the family home at Manassas, Va.

Reaching Alabama, the family settled on a large plantation near the town of Athens, where many of the descendants still live. In 1845, W. O. Washington's grandfather, Henry Washington, migrated westward, locating in Texas.

On his eastward journey, Mr. Washington, who is president of the county officials division of the American Road Builders Association, stopped at the various points where his family had settled from time to time on its westward journey.

"I was very much impressed," Mr. Washington said, "with the fact that the farther east I came, the more family-conscious I found my relatives. I learned that the Texas branch of the Washington family was much better known to those located in Alabama and in Virginia than the latter were to us. Out in a new country—I guess that explains it—my people did not have much chance to keep track of those they had left behind. Those located back this way, however, knew everything there was to know about the entire family history, including our branch of it."

The primary purpose of his journey, Mr. Washington said, was to address the convention of the National Rural Letter Carriers Association in Baltimore.

MRS. M'CORMICK IS DEAD IN CHICAGO

where he himself had been ill, and came here to visit his sister. He left for the East after a two-day visit, when Mrs. McCormick rallied. Mrs. E. Parmalee Prentice, Mrs. McCormick's older sister, also came last week from her home in the East for a visit, returning after several days.

Financial worries, Krenn said, hastened her final breakdown. In 1923 she organized her vast Chicago and suburban real estate holdings into the $5,000,000 Edith Rockefeller McCormick Trust and intrusted management of the properties to the firm of Krenn & Dato, headed by the former Swiss architect. With the decline in values since 1928, Mrs. McCormick kept the spotlight of world-wide attention by a life that was intensely varied, often sensational, sometimes tempestuous and never commonplace.

Her interests were everywhere and everything and she moved swiftly from one to another, as changeful as a chameleon on a patchwork quilt. They spanned two continents, ranged from the arts to the sciences, from her obligations as a social dictator to the active management of her vast properties.

Music, literature and art, the metaphysical borderland of astrology and reincarnation—all felt her influence.

Ever present at opening nights during the operatic season, attending numerous art exhibits and literary meetings, Mrs. McCormick occasionally viewed movie "thrillers" at 10-cent cinemas.

Although she held to the theory that woman's place was a passive one, she was an ardent feminist, an advocate of woman suffrage, urged creative thinking by her sex and identified herself with movements to advance woman's position in politics. She was affiliated with many art and literary organizations.

In 1931 a collection of her verses, "Love Song Cycle," was set to music by Eleanor Everest Freer. Although it was published, critics said little.

MISS ELSIE FITZGERALD DIES.

Was House Director at Episcopal Hospital Four Years.

Miss Elsie Fitzgerald, who for four years was house director of the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, died Wednesday at Presque Isle, Me., it was learned yesterday.

Miss Fitzgerald, who resigned in June from her position in the hospital here, was passing the summer at the Maine home of her parents. She had accepted a position in a New York publishing firm and planned to begin work there in September.

According to the facts received by Mrs. Faber Stevenson, president of the board of lady managers of the hospital, Miss Fitzgerald succumbed to an attack of acute indigestion contracted while in bathing. Funeral and burial will be held in Maine tomorrow.

HITLER'S COALITION NEGOTIATIONS FAIL

Riotous Protests Against Death Sentences Cause Breakdown.

Berlin, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Negotiations for a coalition between Adolf Hitler's National Socialists and the Centrists to take over the federal government appeared today to have come to naught as result of the agitation against death sentences imposed on the five Hitler followers who were convicted in Beuthen of committing a political murder.

Former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening acted as the Centrists' representative in the negotiations and Gregor Strasser was Hitler's delegate. It was understood the two men met yesterday and made no progress toward coalition.

Meanwhile, the Nazi agitation against the death sentences continued unabated. In Beuthen there were riots which lasted all last night and resulted in injuries to twenty persons.

Some commentators declared the federal government was proceeding in the hope that when the new reichstag convenes Tuesday there will be such a row it will be possible for the cabinet to decree dissolution and govern the Nation under a practical dictatorship.

There were instances of violence in other parts of the reich. Hundreds of uniformed National Socialists at Halle tried to prevent a battery of Reichswehr Artillery from entering the city. There was a battle between police and the Nazis. Numerous arrests were made.

Munich police arrested Otto Nippold, propaganda chief for the Bavarian Nazis. He was charged with breaking windows in the office of a nationalist newspaper.

MRS. MASON SMITH RITES.

Will Be Held This Morning at Home Near Herndon.

Funeral services for Mrs. Grace Haley Smith, 44 years old, wife of Mason Smith, prominent dairyman of Herndon, will be held this morning at 11 o'clock from the home near Herndon. The service will be conducted by the Rev. O. B. Lloyd, pastor of the Herndon Baptist Church. Interment will be in the Chestnut Grove Cemetery in Herndon.

Mrs. Smith had been ill for the past two years. Besides her husband she is survived by seven sons—Mason F., jr., Wilson, Haley, Mack, Howard, Randolph and Dean, all living at home.

Mrs. McK. Kay, 36, Expires Suddenly

Gen. Patrick's Secretary Victim of Heart Disorder.

Mrs. Margaret McKinney Kay, 36, secretary to Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, died suddenly yesterday at the apartment of Earl V. Fisher, executive secretary of the commission, at 1801 Sixteenth street northwest. An autopsy was peformed by Dr. Christopher J. Murphy, deputy coroner, who said her death was due to a heart disorder.

Mrs. Kay was a widow, her husband having died in 1930. She was a native of Washington and lived with her mother, Mrs. Helen C. McKinney, at 1829 Ingleside Terrace. She is survived by two sons, John, 9, and Milton, 12, and two brothers, Samuel and Charles McKinney.

Although Mrs. Kay appeared in good health when she left the commission Wednesday afternoon, friends pointed out she had been under treatment for heart trouble. Funeral arrangements were not complete last night.

ABELLI'S RESIGNING ENTERS CHACO TALK

Bolivia's Attitude Believed Unchanged in Effort to Settle Dispute.

(Associated Press.)

The resignation of Luis O. Abelli as Bolivian Minister to Washington was discussed widely yesterday in Latin American diplomatic circles, where Abelli's retirement was linked with speculation as to the possible effect it might have on the result of negotiations seeking a solution of Bolivia's controversy with Paraguay over territorial sovereignty in the Chaco.

It was generally believed the minister's action would not involve a change of his government's attitude toward peace moves in the Chaco, as Bolivia's case in the negotiations has been handled mostly by Eduardo Diez de Medina and Enrique Finot, her delegates to the nonaggression pact conference here. Abelli always has cooperated with the delegates, however, and the legation has been a positive factor in recent developments.

The commission of five neutral representatives held no meetings yesterday. Chairman Francis White of the State Department could not predict the next move the neutrals will make toward arangements of a truce between the disputants and an arbitration plan.

He indicated the neutrals would "mark time" pending receipt of Bolivia's reply to categorical questions embodied in their August 17 note in which the Bolivian position was requested on truce terms.

in 1932 Hydrofined Oil Replaces "STANDARD" MOTOR OIL

Essolube, the only hydrofined oil, is now available to every motorist at the price of ordinary motor oils.

This oil is a result of the great hydrogenation discovery. Hydrogenation of atmospheric nitrogen was the chemical secret that enabled Germany to produce unlimited quantities of explosives and thus to "carry on" years after the experts considered her continued struggle impossible.

Hydrofining, developed by the Standard Oil scientists, is an advanced process which makes the hydrogenation of motor oil commercially possible.

Hydrofining gives Essolube all the five essential qualities for complete lubrication.

The finest Paraffinic oils have three of these essential qualities. Naphthenic (Asphaltic) oils have two of them. Essolube, by hydrofining, combines all five qualities. There has been no commercial method before hydrofining that combined the good qualities of these two types of oil.

It is so superior to all other oils that we are not only proud to name it after its companion product in quality, Esso, "more powerful than any gasoline," but we have replaced the widely known "Standard" Motor Oil with this new product.

Hydrofined Essolube sells at no extra cost.

It is on sale at all stations and dealers of the following companies: Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania, Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, Standard Oil Company, Incorporated in Kentucky, Colonial Beacon Oil Company, Inc.

ALL PULLING TOGETHER.

Leaders of American business, industry and finance are gathered in the National Capital to meet with President Hoover to consider plans for the greater expansion of credit and employment. These sessions are happily timed. Following months of effort on the part of private enterprise to reorganize demoralized trade and equally strenuous endeavor by the Administration to bolster the credit structure of the Nation and set in motion the helpful instrumentalities provided by law, the hour has struck for the complete coordination of public and private work aimed at ending the depression.

These meetings confront a situation very different from that even of two months ago. Confidence has been restored to the American people. They are ready to go forward today with every assurance that the money of the country and its banking system are sound and that provision has been made to assist legitimate enterprise in renewing the activities essential to the reabsorption of the many who are now idle. The great and vital problem before the executive leaders is to devise practical means of getting the credit that is now available into the channels where it can be actually applied to the restoration of the industrial activity which creates jobs.

Many banks have been bolstered with help from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and through the operations of the Federal Reserve system. It is now known that legitimate needs can be supplied. The banks and all financial organizations have been greatly strengthened, also, by the increased value of their security holdings. No one can blame the conservative attitude of banks during the uncertainties of past months which required the retention of abnormal cash holdings, but now, with every condition changed, both as regards the general feeling of security and the actual value of commodities and securities alike, effective means must be found for a general loosening of credit and its application to business enterprises.

Certainly at no time since the market collapse nearly three years ago have conditions looked so favorable for permanent improvement. The assembled leaders will be heartened in their efforts still further to stimulate business by the daily reports of numerous factories that are resuming or enlarging operations. They know what it means to the stability of many institutions to have had $12,000,000,000 added to the value of stocks and at least a third as much to bond values; that the cotton holdings of the country are worth a quarter billion more, and farmers' live stock enhanced a half billion in value. These increases have carried other values up, and it certainly is a conservative estimate to say the Nation counts itself $25,000,000,000 richer than it was less than three months ago.

When on the same day U. S. Steel and the American Federation of Labor issue optimistic statements regarding conditions it indicates that general improvement and better feeling is not something manufactured for campaign purposes. There can be no question regarding the renewal of the fighting spirit of America, as recognized by the new Secretary of Commerce. It is the best foundation of all on which to build. The representatives of trade and industry who have come from all parts of the United States will find the government earnest and capable in its plans to help. The ample resources of the Nation are supporting the agencies now in a position to assist every deserving undertaking that can provide employment. These reservoirs of credit stand behind the banks, and the millions that are now available must be judiciously placed without delay where they will stimulate trade and industry, commerce and agriculture.

OPPOSING MOB RULE.

Two determined sheriffs in Iowa and Illinois have cleared the highways of blockading farmers and striking miners. It is unfortunate that such measures are necessary against American citizens who believe they are abused. It is even more regrettable that these or any citizen should have so little appreciation of the spirit of American institutions as to think they can win their case by mob violence. Such lawless attempts must be suppressed, whether they are made in the District of Columbia, Iowa or Illinois.

If farmers can secure the voluntary cooperation of a sufficient number to regulate the flow of their products to market in order to bring about an increase in prices they would not be prosecuted under the anti-trust laws, as might be the case with corporations. However, when they not only refuse to sell but blockade the roads and prevent other farmers from reaching the city markets, they become lawbreakers. Sympathy goes out to the farmers in full measure for the low prices they secure as a result of their toil, but nevertheless their violent invasion of the rights of others is not justified.

If the miners from Central Illinois had been migrating to the south to accept offered jobs and they were not allowed to enter the county where work was to be found, universal sympathy would have gone out to them, and their cause would have been just. But when the object of their journey was to stop men from working on jobs, they put themselves beyond both the law and public approval.

The action of the local authorities in taking vigorous measures to end these violent demonstrations must be commended. The miners appear to have been discouraged and dispersed with the first real opposition they encountered. The arrest of a large number of the Iowa farmers and the threat of their companions to rescue them from jail portend the possibility of more serious trouble. However, no good comes of temporizing in such cases, and local authority must be supported, if necessary, in preserving public order and opposing attempts at mob rule.

EXCESS MACHINE OUTPUT.

From the many investigations of depression conditions, surveys made and remedies proposed by the professional theorists and the practical men of business and finance, a few fundamental facts of the situation stand out that must be considered in connection with the resumption of industrial activity. First and most important is the necessity of facing technological unemployment. There can no longer be any question that the labor-saving machines already set up can produce more than can be marketed.

This condition is recognized, and corrective plans contemplate the expansion of work among greater numbers of employes by shortening the number of working hours. This means the distribution of pay among a greater number of workers, resulting in smaller individual incomes, but this or horizontal wage cuts work no great hardships, since most living costs have declined in compensating proportion. During the early stages of the depression every effort and argument was used to maintain wages and buying power. When the decline of capital values and production income reached such extremes as have now been recorded, it became patent that any practical resumption of production must be made upon a basis of an equitable sacrifice by labor, and this has been accepted as necessary by labor in most industries.

That mechanization has increased output faster than capacity for consumption, and beyond the possibility of allocating labor in new jobs, there can no longer be any question. Forty years ago the iron and steel industry employed about the same number of men as in 1929, but in the latter year the tonnage output was nearly ten times as great. The number of brick plants operating in the United States three years ago was 2,370, about the same as in 1850, with a tremendously increased capacity; yet five large, thoroughly modern plants, employing only 100 men, could produce the entire 1929 output. The flour mills of the country numbered nearly 12,000 in 1909. Twenty years later they had decreased to less than 3,000, but the smaller number ground 75,000,000 more bushels of wheat, though they employed 30 per cent less labor.

Many plants today are on part time or entirely idle. The resumption or expansion of work provides more favorable opportunity for the inauguration of new and equitable systems for spreading employment than under any other circumstances. Restoring even part-time work is more readily accepted than enforcing reductions on full time schedules. The lessons of these hard years have been severe for both capitalist and employe, but they should not have been suffered in vain. With the resumption of demand there must be more careful gauging of market capacity, and upon employers as never before will be charged the responsibility for better care of their employes, both in good times and bad.

JAPAN'S OBJECTIVE.

The statement of Japan's policy by Count Uchida, foreign minister, is an attempt to reassure militant Japanese opinion while equivocating with foreign governments on the question of disregard of treaties. It is doubtful if this double-barreled address to domestic and foreign audiences will satisfy either one. Count Uchida is much more circumspect than Gen. Araki, minister of war, who bluntly outlined Japan's aims a few days ago. Probably the warlike element in Japan will express dissatisfaction with Count Uchida's statement, and it is even possible that he may find it convenient to retire for a time in order to escape attack by fanatical radicals. Several assassinations in the last year have revealed the terrible ferment in the country.

The governments adhering to the nine-power treaty and the Kellogg pact can not concur in Count Uchida's interpretation of those engagements. They are not likely to be swerved from their position by the announcement of Japan's determination to recognize the government of Manchukuo. They will not recognize that counterfeit of independent government. They perceive it to be a mere artifice arranged to facilitate the process of absorbing Manchuria. The same protestations of Japan's purpose not to acquire territory were made when Korea was in process of absorption.

Conflicting reports come from Tokyo and Chinese sources regarding the situation in Jehol, the Chinese province which lies west of Manchuria. There has been fighting there by Japanese troops, not only against roving bands such as oppose Japan in Manchuria, but against the organized forces of China. It remains to be disclosed whether these border clashes are, as many appear to believe, preliminary to a campaign by Japan to incorporate Jehol in the newly established state of Manchukuo. All branches of the Japanese war plants are exceptionally busy turning out large stocks of supplies, the air forces are being strengthened by hundreds of planes, and abnormal imports of potential war materials are reported.

Since Gen. Araki, minister of war, has become the dominating character in the Japanese cabinet his recent belligerent statements regarding Japanese aims and actions have attracted much attention. He goes beyond the question of Jehol, and says that Mongolia may prove an even greater obstacle than Manchuria to Japan's "mission of peace." He demands to know "whether it is Chinese or whether it belongs to Soviet Russia; we would like to have a Mongolia of Orientals, with peace and security guaranteed forever; Japan can not permit it to be invaded by a foreign power."

Gen. Araki is a man of action. He holds that, since Japan is recognized as the leading Asiatic power, it should take things into its own hands and not allow matters to drift. Critical of both British and American treatment of colonies and their attitude toward other nations, Gen. Araki says: "Nowhere in this society of nations can we find that pacific spirit which we call by the name of the imperial principle of the Japanese Empire. This is very much to be regretted for humanity as a whole."

The white peoples, Gen. Araki claims, are making the countries of Eastern Asia objects of oppression, and "imperial Japan no longer should let their impudence go unpunished. It is the duty of the people of imperial Japan to oppose each and every action by the powers which is not in sympathy with the spirit of the imperial principle of the Empire of Japan, which is an embodiment of justice and righteousness. It is therefore expected of every Japanese that he be ready to take his part in the duty of restoring peace, even through resort to arms."

Editor Al Smith now has a good opportunity to spread the idea that returning prosperity makes it advisable for tenants to take quick action in selecting choice suites in the Empire Building.

Gov. Roosevelt's urgent appeal for campaign contributions can not fail to arouse an irresistible fellow feeling in the breast of Herbert Hoover.

MERE BIGNESS FAILS

From the Journal of Commerce.

Assume that the present slight improvement in business is not a flash in the pan, but the beginning of the upturn. What are we going to do about it—just go on with the same old ideals and try to repeat the program of the decade which preceded 1930, or endeavor to lay a firmer foundation and build a better structure?

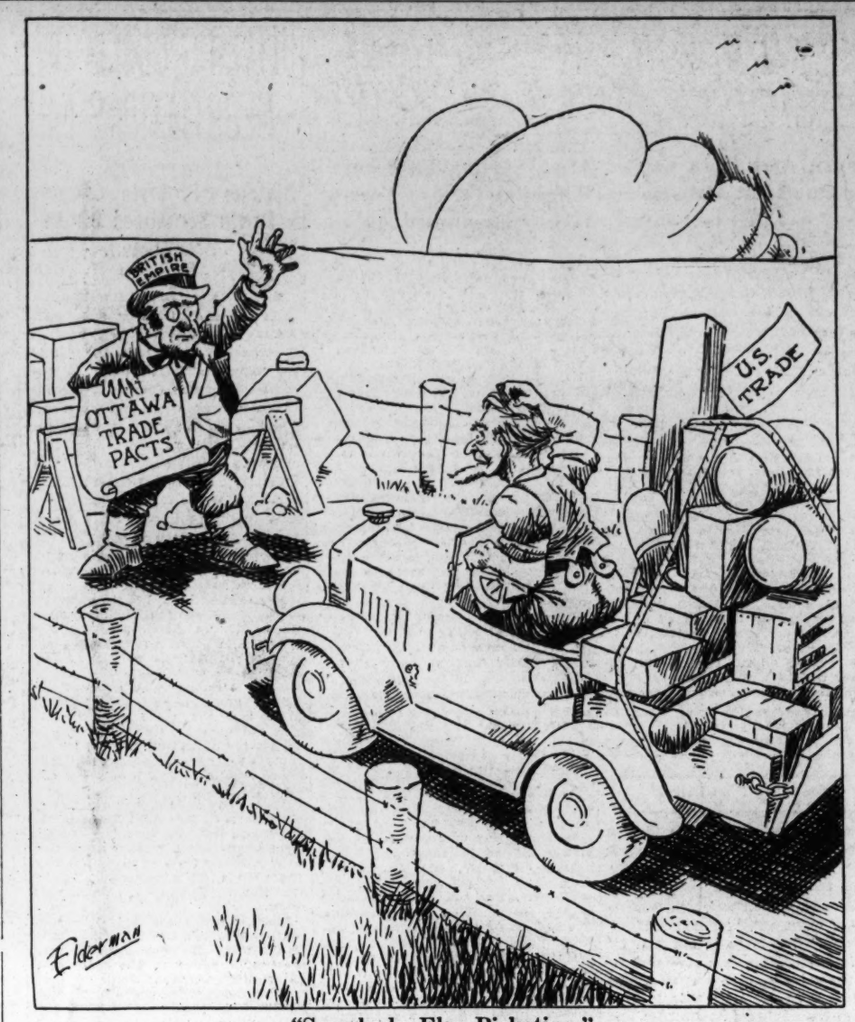
The experiences of the World War left a deep mark upon the American people. They were astounded by the country's power to accomplish things. To raise and equip an army of 5,000,000 men and transport nearly half of it overseas in a few months, to do financing which made previous operations look small, to take over the railroads so as to make them contribute more fully to war operations, these things, and others, were so vast that people learned to think in terms of billions instead of millions.

To meet the exigencies of war the Government exercised powers which it had scarcely dreamed it possessed, and the people submitted without protest as a patriotic duty. Drive after drive, accompanied by publicity and propaganda, not only showed what could be done by organization but accustomed the people to being driven. Then came the end of the war. Industry reorganized itself and resumed its regular operations, and there returned to civil life 5,000,000 young men who had been under military and naval discipline, had learned to take orders from others, and while in the service had been provided by the Government with food, shelter, clothing and transportation.

As an ideal, bigness seems to have failed. Organization along army lines has left much to be desired. Adoption of government methods has not proved wholly successful. It is time for a change.

To build the best institutions rather than the largest, to turn out the best product rather than the most of it, to furnish the best service rather than to serve the greatest number are worthy objectives to strive for. To attain these requires the best men and the best women, and the best that is in people is not developed by relieving them of responsibility, by letting self-styled leaders do their thinking for them and by making them like sheep ready to follow a bell wether who leads a drive.

Some businesses have to be organized on a very large scale. Many do not. The next few years will probably show whether organization on the vastest scale possible or on a plan which distributes responsibility among many persons and calls into its service, and defense in adverse times, all the power there is in them, produces the most satisfactory results.



"Somebody Else Picketing."

POST HASTE.

Count Uchida enters, bearing Japan's foreign policy, but Gen. Araki will carry it out.

Uncompromising drys should realize that a static constitution does not suit all American tuners-in these days.

Secretary Hurley made it clear that Gov. Roosevelt's ideas on when, where and how the depression started indicate the need of a World Almanac in the executive mansion at Albany.

Bolivia and Paraguay can never agree on their respective rights in the Gran Chaco wilderness, so they had better divide it fifty-fifty, and each make the best of the liability.

It may not be a shady transaction, but the Farm Board is getting the nitrate on Chile's chief product for a wheat deal.

Speaker Garner and the Democratic House that forced publicity for reconstruction loans deserve no credit for the lack of disastrous results, which is due to restored confidence in banks and their improved condition. Publicity under circumstances existing when the law was passed might have been calamitous.

It is amazing to hear Tokyo talking as though recognition of the infant Manchukuo would really make any difference. It has been an adopted member of Japan's family ever since it was born.

The idealistic rule of the Soviets is quite lenient with such minor crimes as murder, but comrades are being shot with regularity and dispatch for stealing grain from the fields, incompetence in handling trains or machinery and speculating in commodities.

The very idea of thinking Frank Polk would make an acceptable successor to Mayor Walker! New York knows he is a poor wise-cracker.

The forgotten man was again doubly complimented last night when the Democratic radio appeal implored him not to forget to remember to contribute.

Gov. Roosevelt is not getting much support for his position that it is more important to place blame for early underestimates of the depression than putting into effect plans for recovery now.

Business leaders in the Capital will kindly overlook the small monkey wrench which the Democratic committee forced Senator Robinson to cast into the machinery of their proceedings. PAUL HUDSON.

STEADFASTNESS.

Men ought to stand erect in times of care.
God fashioned them the loads of life to bear.

And through the dreary, dismal hours and long
God gave to them the faith to keep them strong.

Children may cry beneath the touch of pain
And women frail seek shelter from the rain.

But when the tempest strikes or danger nears,
'Tis then the man, courageous, best [illegible]

Let us stand fast though storms our roof trees shake
For those we love, for soon the clouds will break.

The Natives of Chile Refused to Work Until New Wants Made Them Dissatisfied

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IT is hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven because he is content with things as they are.

The beginning of all aspiration is discontent. Ambition is nothing more than a desire to escape. The inspiration that prompts invention, discovery and progress is disapproval of the scheme of things sanctified by custom.

If the poor boy climbs higher than the rich one, it is not because he is equipped with a greater store of native ability. It is because his apparent handicap is an advantage. Discontent inspires him. He resolves to be somebody because he hates being nobody. And the rich boy makes no effort to climb because he is content to be where he is. Dogs have little zeal for the chase if they are overfed.

These things being true, the first step in the business of making yourself a bigger and better man must consist in making yourself dissatisfied with the man you now are. It is not enough to wish you were abler, nobler, wiser, richer. You must wholly and heartily disapprove and scorn the poor creature you would make over.

The desired state of mind is achieved by means of comparison. A $600 car seems a wonderful vehicle to the man who has never seen it parked near a $6,000 model.

Have you ever gone back to the old home town or visited the neighborhood where you worked in your youth?

If you have, you doubtless were astonished by the shrinkage. The old rivers were creeks; high hills had flattened; great buildings had grown small, and people you once feared or respected or regarded with awe and admiration had somehow lost their advantage and become commonplace and insignificant. Yet nothing had changed. The old place had stood still while you grew up.

That kind of comparison tickled your ego. The other kind will give you the saving discontent needed to make you grow.

Search out old acquaintances who have climbed high—those you once excelled in the classroom, in athletics or in the shop. Observe their wealth, their assurance, their dignity, their obvious freedom from shameful vices and ignoble weaknesses.

You will swallow a bitter pill, but it will be good for your soul. Your reward will be a rebellious discontent almost unendurable, but that will change to high resolve and your normal need of self-respect will furnish the power for further climbing.

The end of the World War, the war to end war, brought the Treaty of Versailles, with its $63,822,000,000 promise to pay from Germany. Fourteen years later, the "conquering" European nations recognize their inability to collect such slave-driving indemnity, and Lausanne follows Versailles. Germany was freed of all save $714,000,000, and Edouard Herriott shouted, "It's done. It's done."

Now comes the news of the "secret" agreement, one of those "gentlemen's agreements," that pick a "sucker," then "pick" him. "The spirit of Lausanne," "the spirit of reason," is to dominate future international relations by putting Uncle Sam "on the spot" to the tune of $11,000,000,000 of promises to pay which the genial gentleman, who saved Europe by winning the war, shifted over to his 122,000,000 relatives.

"O. K., Colonel Europe!" We'll let you slip that one over on one condition.

That condition is that Europe immediately proceed to "clip off" $11,000,000,000 from its armament program.

No "Third Party."

Houston Post.

Events multiply to make certain that there will be no "third party," in the sense that the term is ordinarily used, in the contest for the Presidency this year. To be sure, the jobless have put out a ticket, the old Prohibition party has nominated a President and a Vice President, and the Socialists have a ticket, more or less complete, in most States.

But organization of a party out of the dissatisfied elements in the major parties, with the design of seriously competing with the major parties, seems to be nowhere contemplated. The fight in November will be between the Republican and Democratic parties. The minor groups will poll few votes.

State Department and Loans.

New York Times.

It is an old controversy, started by Senator Glass, which Gov. Roosevelt revived by saying in his Columbus speech that he, if elected, will not permit "international bankers or others to sell to the investing public of America foreign securities on the implied understanding that these securities have been passed on or approved by the State Department or any other agency of the Federal Government." As before, when Mr. Glass attacked the departmental practice which began in the Harding administration, the State Department has been quick to resent the charge that by not disapproving foreign loans submitted to its officials it has virtually approved them.

"This long-since discredited story" is the characterization by the department, replying to Gov. Roosevelt. Its official statement adds that, while many bad loans were prevented, no issue has been "encouraged." So the argument turns, as always, on the point whether failure to discourage is not in fact tacit approval. Many agree with Mr. Glass and Mr. Roosevelt that this is the net of the whole thing. That the department itself realizes the responsibility it assumed in the matter of foreign loans is indicated in its later policy declining to consult about them.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Says Excessive Overhead is Charged by Workmen's Compensation Insurance Companies.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In Mr. R. Serrell W. Walker's letter to you in your issue of August 24, in which he attempts to justify the increase in rates for workmen's compensation insurance, he has, like all other proponents of the increase, clouded the issue. Workmen's compensation insurance is unlike any other form of insurance in that it is compulsory on each and every employer in the District of Columbia. It is not like automobile or fire insurance, which is not compulsory. He attempts to set up the theory that it is bought in the open market. This is not so. When goods are bought in the open market there is usually some competition by the seller. In the case of workmen's compensation insurance the policies all read alike, and agree to pay losses which are provided by law. They all provide for the same rate of premium to be paid, and these rates are set in New York, and applied through a local office, by a combination of insurance companies.

Mr. Walker states that the premium is based on the pay roll. That is true, and that is exactly the reason why the insurance companies claim that they have lost money on this class of insurance. If the premium were based on the risk, as is done by life insurance and accident insurance companies instead of on the salary of the employes, there would be no reason for an increase in rate at this time. In fact, if Mr. Walker had told the whole truth about the matter there would appear no reason for an increase in rates. The companies writing workmen's compensation insurance paid out in 1931 less than 73 per cent of the amount collected in premiums, yet they claim an underwriting loss of approximately 18 per cent. From this it would appear that in the country as a whole they only expect to pay out about 61½ per cent in losses of the amount taken in as premiums, leaving 38½ per cent for overhead.

Surely if workmen's compensation insurance were really competitive the companies would work on a smaller overhead than 38½ per cent. It does not seem fair to the employer, who is compelled by law to carry this form of insurance, to have to pay out $100 to secure $61.50 protection for his employes. JOHN W. LAINHART.

Editor Al Smith's Refusal to Read Books Stirs Speculation as to What New Outlook Will Be.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The appearance of Former Presidential Candidate Al Smith as editor of the New Outlook, a new name for the authoritative old journal of erudite opinion of the last half of the nineteenth century and the early years of the twentieth, strikes me as a genuine politico-literary surprise, if there ever was one. Whether Mr. Smith will shine may be doubted by some who have an undue prejudice against him, but certainly as an Outlook editor he is in as good company as he ever kept, since it includes such names as Henry Ward Beecher, Lyman Abbott and Theodore Roosevelt, among other capable publicists.

In regard to the political significance of Mr. Smith's venture in the editorial field, newspapers and campaign speakers will have something to say. But seeing that I am one of those whom a shameless low-brow, once called "them dam literary fellers," my interest in the New Outlook editorship is from the literary viewpoint.

Although the editor of the New Outlook has an adequate and smooth-working vocabulary, it is well known that he is no bookworm. In fact, he seems proud to intimate that he would scorn to look inside of a book, having said in reference to the literary quality of his publication—

"Remember, I don't read books. I've stated that 400 times. I don't want to reverse my position now just because I'm an editor."

Up to this time the traditional belief that editors should be on more or less friendly terms with books has not been seriously disputed. In the case of Editor Smith we now have an opportunity to determine whether familiarity with books really is essential to the molding of opinion in the public press.

When the Litt. D.'s have had time to compare the work of the New Outlook editor with that of his bookish as well as famous Outlook predecessors the result may be to modify the popular idea that an editor must necessarily be a well-filled storehouse of book-learning, while to some extent it may affect the course of study in schools of journalism. Little Chance to Learn About Cosmic Rays by Going Up Ten Miles.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In all probability, the mysterious cosmic rays coming from outer space beyond the stars will remain an enigma despite the efforts of Prof. Piccard to wrench these secrets out of their hiding places in the stratosphere. An ascent of ten miles into the stratosphere above the earth is like trying to see the bottom of the ocean at its deepest point from a depth of a few feet. One can not look down and see the bottom of the ocean nor can one expect to gain much information about the cosmic rays, which come through hundreds of thousands of miles of space, by going ten miles above the earth.

One thing is certain, however. Prof. Piccard has proved that man can ascend a distance of ten miles above the earth and return alive. Some day an airplane may ascend to such a distance and make wonderful speed. The professor's trip may prove beneficial to aviation, but as to its resulting in any definite information about the cosmic rays, that is another matter. K. G. H.

NOTES OF INTEREST TO CAPITAL SOCIETY

'PINAFORE' IS READY FOR STAGE TONIGHT

Sylvan Theater to Be Site of Program of Noted Songs and Dances.

Famous songs and dances of light opera will be heard and seen at the Sylvan Theater tonight when the operetta "H. M. S. Pinafore" is presented by Miss Estelle Wentworth.

A feature of the performance will be the appearance of Miss Ivy Stevens as the midshipmite. Miss Stevens will dance the sailor's hornpipe in the first act. $400,000 for 262 Engines Allotted Norfolk Navy Yard Gets Additional Sum to Boost Employment.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Supplementing an order for the manufacture of gas engines received at the Norfolk Navy Yard last January, for which there was an allotment of $400,000, the yard has received an additional allotment of $400,000 for 262 more engines.

Last week the January order was reduced in the number of engines with a consequent scaling down of $100,000 in the appropriation. The new work, which is regarded as a substantial "back log" of employment, will go far toward stabilizing the work load of the yard for a long time to come.

The estimated date of completion of the order received last January is June, 1934, and the tentative completion date of the additional work for which the order has just been received, is June, 1935.

Colonial Ball Slated At Calvert Mansion

A colonial costume ball will be held in the historic Calvert mansion in Riverdale, September 16, as a part of the town's Bicentennial celebration. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie will be invited.

Thomas H. Pickford, present owner of the place, gave permission for the party to be held. Since the days of the Calverts, the house has been the home of many other prominent persons, the most recent occupants being Senators Hiram Johnson and T. H. Caraway. B. F. Hamby heads the committee in charge of the affair, other members being Kenneth McRae, Mayor W. A. Carson, George F. Montgomery, R. P. Caruthers, T. W. Venemann and Mrs. Brice Bowie.

Bids Received on Road At Memorial Bridge

The office of Public Buildings and Parks has announced that work on reconstruction of the road between the south end of the Memorial Bridge and the Arlington Cemetery will be started soon.

Since it was first opened a few months ago, the temporary road has been in constant use by commuters from Virginia. Bids for the improvement of the stretch have been received and will be opened within the next week, according to announcement yesterday of Capt. E. N. Chisolm, acting director in the absence of Col. U. S. Grant, 3d.

Card Party Scheduled Tonight.

The Daughters of America of the District of Columbia will hold a card party tonight at the home of the State Vice Councilor, Mrs. Belle Gibson, of 206 Jefferson avenue, Aurora Hills, Va. The affair is sponsored by Mrs. Ella Stone, State Council Conductress.

Mrs. Hoover Gives Tea for Wives Of Diplomats

MRS. HOOVER RECEIVED Mrs. Stanley M. Bruce, wife of the former Prime Minister of Australia; Mrs. A. P. J. Fourie, wife of the minister of mines and industries of the Union of South Africa; Mrs. Eric Louw, wife of the minister of the Union of South Africa, and Mrs. H. S. Gullett, wife of the minister of state for trade and customs of Australia, at tea yesterday afternoon at the White House.

Mrs. Gullett and Mrs. Bruce came to Washington Wednesday with Mr. Gullet and Mr. Bruce, who were delegates from Australia to the recent conference in Ottawa, Canada. Mr. F. L. McDougall, of the office of the Australian high commissioner in London, also is with them during their stay in Washington.

The Charge d'Affaires of Great Britain, Mr. F. D. G. Osborne, entertained them at luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower. Mr. Osborne was host at dinner Wednesday evening for his house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Gullett, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce and Mr. McDougall, the other guests including members of the embassy staff.

To the Members of The President's Conference of

We recommend a study of the JAVITS PLAN to lay a sound foundation for recovery.
Benjamin A. Javits, Esq., of New York, who was a pioneer in the matter of national economic planning, and who is the most practical authority on the subject, has in his recent book
BUSINESS and THE PUBLIC INTEREST
set forth as we believe a concrete plan which if generally adopted will not only help materially to solve the pressing problem of unemployment but will keep the purchasing power of the American worker abreast of our producing capacity, and therefore prevent future waves of unemployment.
This plan would eventually put every business on a profit basis and commit every business firm to discharge its public obligation.
The book should interest every American who desires to attain for us a sound progressive national economy.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WARTS AND HEAD NOISES.

A. L. W. writes: It has been a long time since you have turned your guns on warts, and it has been more than half a century since I have had a personal interest in them. I have been so in the habit of thinking out my own problems that when a wart appeared on my finger I applied some plaster and made the slickest sort of a job of excavating, but it didn't stay excavated, came back bigger than before and a bit tender, probably due to overlap of the plaster. Being out of spunk water I crave a boon of science. Will you kindly?

With full realization that a single case proves nothing, let me explain how I cured head noises. I am one of the long leans you tell about, with fallen stomach and full cargo of ailments that do not amount to disease. I am totally deaf as to one ear from hardening of tissues, and from ruptured drum as to other. Have listened to much subjective crooning, and have had recurrent, pulsating disturbances accompanied by a tremolo that worried me a bit. My cure was not aimed at this particular misery, however. I realized that to avoid apoplexy and heart disease I must cease making so much blood; in other words, cut down my rations. I had an enormous appetite, was married to a wonderful cook, and had a perfect digestion. The job was no light one.

I don't know what I have done as to my chief objectives, but I have cleared up a list of minor symptoms as long as your arm. This sounds egotistical. Perhaps it is, but I overcame gluttony, restored a degree of normality of appetite, and my troubles left me—head noises with the rest.

REPLY:

I think you will need to have these warts burned off by your physician. He will probably use an electric spark.

You deserve to get rid of your warts for telling us how you got rid of your head noises.

SENSITIZED TO COLD.

V. C. W. writes: Last winter I had a condition which I thought was chilblains. When I was exposed to cold my symptoms appeared. A cold wind would cause it. So would a change of 10 degrees in temperature. Suddenly my feet and legs would swell. Medium-sized white spots would appear and these would itch. What can I do?

REPLY.

You appear to be sensitized to cold. Use this summer season to try to overcome this. Take one or two cold baths a day. Start with tepid water. Gradually drop the temperature until you are exposing your skin momentarily to cool, or even cold water. Follow with vigorous rubbing. As the treatment progresses plunge into cold water and then in warm, back and forth. If you have a shower, alternate the warm and cold water.

FATIGUE PROBABLY CAUSE.

Miss V. W. writes:

1. Could you tell me the cause of twitching eyelids? My right eye has been this way for about a week.

2. How much should I weigh? I am 23 years old, 4 feet 10 inches, and have medium size bones.

REPLY:

1. Fatigue. You may be tired from either work or worry. Maybe your eyes are tired from eyestrain.

2. About 112 pounds.

NORMALCY.

V. B. writes: For the bowels to be in perfect working order, how many times a day should they function?

REPLY.

There may be considerable variations in habits without passing the limits of normalcy. For most people once a day is normal. Probably twice a day is a better habit. A few are below these levels and a few are above them somewhat without being abnormal.

ARTHRITIS.

Mrs. L. S. writes:

1. Is there any cure for arthritis?

2. Does grapefruit or any other citrus fruit make it worse?

3. What are the causes of this condition?

REPLY.

1. There are many cases of arthritis. Some kinds are curable.

2. No.

3. Among the causes are: Various infections of what is called the focal type, a streptococcus, sometimes called rheumatic streptococcus; gonococcus, gout, and perhaps others.

HAVE AN EXAMINATION.

A. A. L. writes: I have had a little red pimple on my lip for over a year. It is about the same size all the time. What is a remover?

REPLY:

A pimple on the lip that stays on and on should be investigated. Some of them are cancerous; some are syphilitic.

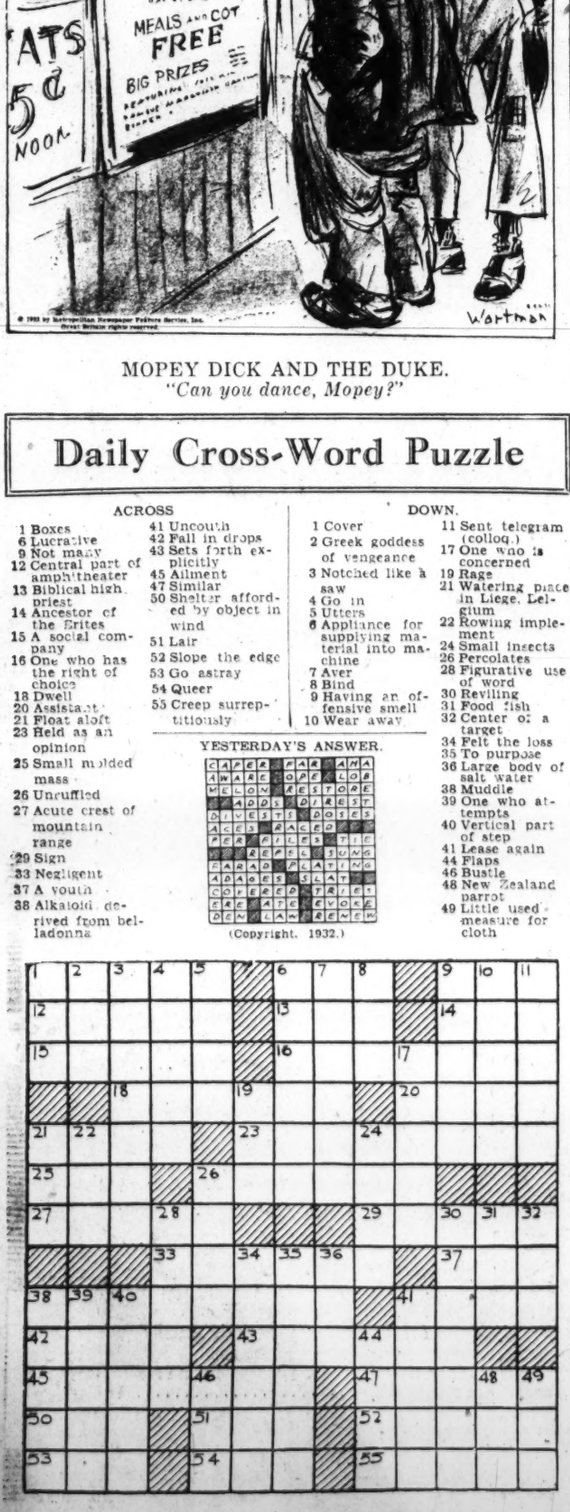
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.

(Copyright, 1932.)



Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

THE board of directors of the National Association of Broadcasters has conferred dictatorial powers on Oswald F. Schuette to cope with the pressing problems confronting the radio industry, according to Harry Shaw, president of the association.

Mr. Schuette's first duty will be to negotiate the details of contracts between individual members of the association and the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers to carry out the new percentage basis of royalties which was accepted at a special meeting of the board in New York City day before yesterday.

Mr. Schuette will cooperate with Philip G. Loucks, managing director of the National Association of Broadcasters.

"The appointment of Mr. Schuette by the board of directors was intended as a vigorous protest on the part of the leaders of the industry against the attempt to levy extortionate royalty fees on the industry at this critical time," Mr. Shaw explained. "We hope, therefore, that the final contracts will be such that the American broadcasting industry can accept them and at the same time continue the high grade of its public service."

Mr. Schuette's radio history began in 1927 when he organized the Radio Protective Association in Chicago and began the fight of the independent radio industry against the so-called "radio trust," which resulted in a dissolution suit by the United States Government and a victory for the independents.

AT least one radio hour is seeking novelty and has gone to all kinds of trouble to get it. For the past several weeks every prominent orchestra director in Washington has had his forces parading before the WRC microphones in auditions for the new Wilkins Coffee Quarter-Hour. Since it is the only local "three-times-weekly" commercial, most booking offices produced more than one combination to make sure they would have the desired kind of music on exhibition.

Rudolf Schramm, also known as the "Gaslight Maestro," barricaded himself in his study and started to make arrangements for a five-piece combination with every man doubling on a number of instruments. With the help of his piano-accordion, Spanish guitar, Hawaiian guitar and slap bass he obtained entirely new effects. Although they are only a quintet, Schramm's musicians lugged between fifteen and twenty instruments into the studios for the audition.

The result is that Rudolf Schramm's orchestra has been retained to furnish the musical background for Marguerite Cromwell, whose singing will again be the star attraction on this year's Wilkins Quarter-Hour, which starts some time in September.

George Reid, the "One-Man Minstrel Show," will do three morning broadcasts for Wilkins Coffee during the fall and winter months.

THE introductory installment of "The Phantom of Crestwood," adapted to radio from Radio Pictures latest mystery production of the same name, will be heard over WRC tonight.

Countess Olga Albani, the Cavaliers, and Rosario Bourdon's Orchestra will combine to present an hour of varied musical entertainment on the Cities Service Hour (WRC, 7 o'clock) tonight.

Nick Lucas, tenor troubadour of the stage, screen and radio, will be the guest star with Nat Shilkret's Orchestra on the Kodak Hour (WMAL, 8 o'clock) tonight. Lucas will do a number of selections he has helped popularize, including "Tip Toe Through the Tulips" and "Marquita."

Virginia Rea, soprano, will be guest soloist with Paul Whiteman's Orchestra (WRC, 9 o'clock) tonight.

SETH PARKER has fans in all sorts of places. Here's a letter one of them wrote him:

"We live in the mountains, 50 miles from civilization. We have an old dish pan we hammer on to give the Seth Parker call, and some of the hill billies walk three and four miles up the canyon to hear your Seth Parker program."

Shields-Lott Defeated in 3 Hours

Allison and Van Ryn Win in Sensational Doubles Match.

Cochet-Bernard Play Vines-Gledhill in Semifinal Today.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, defending champions in the fifty-first annual national doubles tennis championship at Longwood, appeared outclassed by a wide margin today, but their courage enabled them to overtake and then outbattle George Lott and Frank Shields in a three-hour semifinal battle.

It was a sensational tennis duel. Twice in the final set the champions were on the verge of defeat. Many times they bowed under Shields' terrific drives and were baffled by Lott's crafty lobs, but they never surrendered and finally broke through for a 6—3, 2—6, 9—11, 6—4, 13—11 victory.

On Saturday they will try to retain their titles against the winners of tomorrow's international semifinal between Henri Cochet and Marcel Bernard, of France, and the crack California team, Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill.

Lott and Shields managed to break down Allison's service in the fourth game for a 3—1 lead and the match appeared settled. Shields, however, evened matters by yielding his delivery in the seventh game, his uncertain back-handers ending in the net. The play then see-sawed until the twenty-third game, when Shields tossed his service game away by matching his partner's net and out. A game to the good, Allison then ran out the match by serving a love game.

Allison made an outstanding rally in the eighth game of the final. Trailing Love 40 on his service, he scored five points in succession to pull the game out of the fire and place the set at five-games all.

The victors were outscored 87 points to 77, but they held their errors down to 139 against 151 for Lott and Shields. The latter was personally responsible for 88 of his team's miscues.

The tall New Yorker, however, was the high-point scorer of the match with 47 placements and 6 aces on his terrific service. Allison totaled 42 points, Van Ryn 36 and Lott, who opened his grass campaign only last week at Newport, R. I., managed to pile up 34 points.

Cubs Rout Robins, 9-3; Lead by 5½ Games

Chicago, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The Cubs did it again today. They smashed the Brooklyn Dodgers down into a 9-to-3 defeat and just about tucked the National League pennant away in their pockets so far at Brooklyn's challenge for the flag is concerned.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

FOR the second year in succession the recreation house at Georgetown Playgrounds will dazzle with the offshooting rays of The Washington Post trophy as a result of victory yesterday in the tenth annual girls' playground track meet, fought out in Central Stadium with a record-breaking crowd of 2,000 contestants competing.

The winning team, coached once again by Mrs. Abbie Flynn, amassed 26 points, to win by a comfortable margin over New York Avenue and Blaamingdale. Competition was hot and furious from second position on down the list of 31 playgrounds who scored during the five hours of activity.

Girls Follow Olympics.

Following closely on the heels of the boys' playground meet, staged Tuesday, yesterday's girls' event also followed closely the Olympic motif, with a parade of playgrounds, the taking of the Olympic oath and the fantastic weaving of the vast assemblage of girls. If anything, it was a more colorful event than the record-breaking boys' meet, for the girls reported bright and early yesterday morning, bedecked in every color in the prism, and while they failed to annihilate the established records, the girls turned in many bright performances.

Two girls were victorious in two events apiece. Anna Liegus, who made her reputation last year by scoring two firsts, duplicated her 1931 stunt yesterday in the unlimited section, with Georgetown benefiting in the point column. Anna hurled a basket ball 83 feet 6 inches and then dashed down the 60-yard lane in the creditable time of 8 1-5 seconds.

Reha Levy Twice Winner.

Reha Levy, the main reason why New York Avenue finished second, negotiated the 60-yard dash in an even 8 seconds in one of the bright performances of the day, and then won the flag race, a difficult game demanding utter control and great stopping and starting to cap off the day's efforts. She participated in the 115-pound division. Agnes Follin, a 100-pounder also ran the 60 in 8 seconds.

Lee Brumby hurled a quoit 110 feet to establish an unofficial record. This event takes the place of the discus.

Yesterday's meet climaxed the summer track season on the playgrounds. What with preliminary meets extending over a period of a month and a half, and four main city championships, for boys and girls some 30,000 children have been vitally affected in constructive sport ranging from running the half mile race to bean bag and back.

Just before the start of the meet, Miss Baker presented several trophies to winners of girls' tennis activities during the season. Catherine Griggs, of Hoover, was awarded the singles trophy, and Edna McKinley and Lee Brumly, of Georgetown, the gold doubles medals. Ellen Burnham and Helen Scott, of Garfield, the doubles runners up, were given bronze medals.

STEELE PUTS GROBMEIER DOWN

Assortment of Attacks Ends Feature Bout at Stadium.

RAY STEELE, the big snarl and mayhem man, had little or no trouble in picking up Fred Grobmeier last night, but he had a time "carrying" him around Prof. Turner's downy mat for 41 minutes before dumping skinny Freddy with a series of flying mares and body drops.

It almost established an intersectional record for continuous carrying. It was patent even to the most stubborn rassle addict in the house that Steele could have floored Grobmeier in two minutes with both hands tied in back of him and his feet in a bear trap, even if Grobmeier were permitted to use an electric buzz saw and a small, well-greased machine gun.

Steele, perhaps the best rassler in the business, had to pull his punches pitifully to make a show of it. He duly submitted to Grobmeier's inept figure four scissors, and when he felt that the audience had had enough he would break Grobmeier's famous hold like a man batting down a cream-puff door. Several times he forgot to let up and smashed Grobmeier around so hard that he all but tore rips in the canvas as Grobmeier's washboard ribs scraped and jangled about the place.

Grobmeier was nearest to throwing Steele when he secured a vicious hold on Ray's right big toe (Steele wrestled barefooted) and almost succeeded in forcing the nail down to the mat.

There was much more competition in the preliminaries. Pat O'Shockler bested Frank Brunowicz in a good brawl in 16 minutes with a series of crotch holds and body slams that rattled the loud speaker larynxes in center field. Another good bout saw Son Jennings beat up John Maxos in 21 minutes with some conventional holds after much unconventional rassling.

Lou Plummer and Herman Hickman were even in their 30-minute piecework job, and Rudy was not his old venomous self against the reformed Italian acrobat, Berto Assiratti.

There must have been nearly 6,000 in the stands.

Boy, 17, Tops Field In National Shooting

Vandalia, Ohio, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Like a hero of an Horatio Alger book, 17-year-old Bobby Olds, Lansing, Mich., farm boy, rose to trapshooting fame and fortune today by outshooting 700 of the country's best marksmen to win the preliminary Grand American Handicap.

Standing on the 21-yard line, the handicap assigned him because he has not shot at 500 registered targets this year, he blazed away to break 99 out of 100 targets and win $1,000 of the $4,000 purse that went with the winning of the preliminary.

St. Joes Seek Foe For Benefit Contest

Members of the St. Joseph's Athletic Club are endeavoring to arrange a game with a strong team to be played the first week in September, proceeds to go to the benefit of Harry Hall, popular sandlotter, who is ill.

Frank Cinotti, manager of the Saints, is the instigator of the plan. He is endeavoring to book a game with St. Mary's Celtics, Hiser's All-Stars, French's A. C. or the Skinker Eagles. Griffith Stadium has been obtained for the fray. The manager of any of the above clubs can communicate with Cinotti at Atlantic 4888 or with the sandlot editor of The Post.

Seaver Easy Winner In Western Amateur

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Charlie Seaver, one of Stanford's star football candidates for 1932, scored a touchdown from the kick-off in the quarter-finals of the Western amateur golf championship today.

Blazing over the Rockford Country Club course with a record-equaling 66, Seaver staggered his 43-year-old rival, Arthur Bartlett, of Ottumwa, Iowa, in the morning for a 10-up lead and then romped away with his match in the afternoon to win 11 and 10. He was 4 shots under par.

Gehrig's Homer Defeats Indians

28th Circuit Clout Wins Game, 4-3; Gomez Gets His 21st Victory.

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—New York's home run twins, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, overpowered Cleveland's one four-base swatter, Earl Averill, today and gave the Yankees a 4-to-3 victory.

Home runs were the most important blows from start to finish of a brilliant pitching argument between Lefty Vernon Gomez and Oral Hildebrand and Gehrig's twenty-eighth finally decided the scrap with none out in the ninth. With the score tied, Lou stepped into the first pitch and drove it into the right field bleachers to win the game. Averill's twenty-eighth homer had tied the score for the Tribe. Gomez won his twenty-first game.

MARATHON GOLF MONDAY.

Larry Day, who will attempt to break his 1929 marathon golf record of 245 holes, and Harold Bowers, his only opponent, have postponed their long journey scheduled today over the East Potomac course, until Monday.

Nature Gives Red Sox Excuse for Twin Bill

Boston, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The management of the Boston Red Sox announced today that the game scheduled between Boston and Cleveland on August 31, had been set ahead because of the eclipse. The game will be played as part of a double-header on August 28.

Eastern Legion Title To Springfield Team

Gastonia, N. C., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—An aggressive team of youngsters from Springfield, Mass., today won the Eastern American Legion junior baseball championship by defeating Baltimore, 6 to 2.

"Moonie" Giovanelli, who blanked Alexandria, Va., yesterday, returned to the mound today to pitch his team to victory in an "iron man" performance. He struck out fourteen Baltimore batsmen and allowed but six hits.

Mrs. Hill Advances In Women's Western

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. Opal Hill, of Kansas City, today reached the semifinal round in defense of the women's Western golf title, but only after a bitter 21-hole battle with Jean Armstrong, of Chicago.

Foxx's 46th Clout Helps Macks Win

Browns Routed, 15-5, as Freitas Wins Tenth in Succession.

Philadelphia, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Crashing out seventeen hits that included home runs by Foxx and McNair, the Athletics overwhelmed the St. Louis Browns, 15 to 5, today and evened the series at one game apiece. The victory represented Tony Freitas' tenth in a row.

Foxx's home run, hit off Hadley in the second inning, was his forty-sixth of the season. In the eighth inning, McNair hit his third home run in three successive games. Burns hit for the circuit with one on base in the second.

HYGRO OUTCLASSES FIELD IN FEATURE AT HAWTHORNE

Epinard's Son Wins by 2½ Lengths

Favorite Breaks on Top and Is Never in Danger.

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Hygro, the Nevada Stock Farms 3-year-old and son of Epinard, outclassed a small but select field in winning the Deepath Purse at Hawthorne today.

Ridden by Charley Landolt, Hygro broke on top and never was in danger of being overhauled in the 6-furlong event. Landolt had a snug hold all the way, but Hygro won by 2½ lengths, pulled up, over Mrs. John D. Hertz' Fairbypair, with Abraham Bartelstein's Kibitzer in the three hole.

Hygro raced the distance in 1:12 3-5 and, as the favorite, paid $2.78 to win.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Joe cashed on Broad Meadows yesterday and won $6.65. Asbestos' 15-to-1 shot, Salama, ran second, paying 3 to 1 to place, but he only played it to win so lost a buck. The code horse was scratched. The boys are waiting for a jumper at Saratoga. The bank rolls are: Joe, $214.25; Asbestos, $28.60.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL. HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, AUG. 25.

We improved our batting average a bit today, but don't let that fool you or kid yourself into the belief that these Hawthorne hosses can be beat.

Two days ago with a mediocre jock, Crimean Lad had a hard time getting out of his own way. Today, with Lewis up, he beat a better field in a gallop. Just better try the "off again, on again, Flannigan" system. Heard from Smitty and his system today. Seems that he switched to a new one, the "time" system, and now "depression" has him. The cheap skates here take their own time about doing anything. One day they run three-quarters in thirteen and before the week is over are beaten in fourteen.

That's the reason, Pal, half the punters at Hawthorne haven't any watches.

Equipoise won't go in the big race here Saturday and though Faireno will be a top-heavy favorite, I am trying to figure a way to get Charleigh home in front. More later. Yours, BILL.

FIRST RACE—On the level, Pal, I have no more idea which one of these cheap maidens will graduate, than a hog has of holiday. If you can't keep from playing every race take a late train out so you will miss this one. The "field" is just as good a bet as any, but if you insist, STATELY LADY, BALDY'S FLAME and FLYING FOOT.

SECOND RACE—If ERVAST is a shadow of his former self, this heat will be a gallop. ALTMARK and LADY INVER for what's left.

THIRD RACE—Just as bad as the first race. Only difference all are not maidens. OLD JUDGE, OLIVE SABBATH and GET READY all have a chance. For that matter so have nine others.

FOURTH RACE—Stringing with SWEEP ALL, STOCK MARKET has developed into a rank "in and outer." DON LEON should be no worse than third.

FIFTH RACE—ISLAM will be odds on and should have no trouble in repeating. GARBO and BUB McFARLAND for place and show.

SIXTH RACE—The Bradley horses are in a winning mood and I expect to see BOARDWALKER greet the judges first, followed by SHASTA STAR, and the lightly weighted FRENCH HONEY.

SEVENTH RACE—Allen may be able to boot WINNIE JOE home, though Lewis, on BEN BLAIR, has fair chance to catch him. SETH'S BALLOT to show and if it rains take him to win.

EIGHTH RACE—FLYING, with only a feather up, may grab the nightcap. OUTCRY and CHIEF CHALLENGER for what's left. SUITOR seemed track sore in his last effort. He may wake up tomorrow, as Baroni's horses have a habit of doing. Come to think of it, if you miss the last train to the track Friday, chances are you will be in better shape for Saturday's battle, for with the possible exception of ISLAM, nothing else seems anywhere near "in."

Stocks Halted in Advance With Fractional Losses

Early Enthusiasm Dulled by Unfavorable Dividends; Turnover, Heavy.

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Stocks rushed ahead in feverish trading again today, only to trip up over an adverse dividend announcement in the late trading.

Extreme gains of 1 to 5 points or more in prominent issues were more than lost in several instances, some issues closing with net losses of 1 to 2 points.

The market had been forced to absorb considerable profit-taking during most of the early advance, but bulls had been stirred to new efforts by a sharp advance in wheat. Bonds failed to support the move, however, and when International Harvester announced a cut in its quarterly dividend to 30 cents, from 45 cents previously, it was accepted as a signal to take profits, although a cut in this dividend had been forecast in some brokerage quarters.

The market reacted substantially after the wheat market had closed, and was apparently affected somewhat by active selling in the more speculative bonds. Losses were in the majority in the more prominent issues, and the price index of 90 lost 6-10 of one point, the first decline in nearly a week.

Trading was at a feverish pace in the early dealings, 800,000 shares trading in the first half hour. The total turnover of 4,170,100 shares was the largest, with only two exceptions, for this year. Various groups had intervals of marked strength, particularly the rails, chemicals, steels, and merchandising issues. Coppers and oils, however, failed to progress notably.

U. S. Steel, General Motors and General Electric lost about 1-2 point net.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Thursday.	Wednesday.
Number of advances..	427	443
Number of declines...	235	180
Stocks unchanged....	143	156
Total issues traded.	805	779

Stocks.

Losses followed unfavorable dividend news. Early trading increased the volume of sales to 4,170,100 shares. The average loss was sixtenths of a point.

Bonds.

Rail issues halted the steady advance of the market, and the general list closed seven-tenths of a point off. Sales dropped to $14,751,000.

Curb.

An enthusiastic rally gave way, near the close, to small losses. The volume of sales increased to 540,000 shares.

Wheat.

Active buying sent wheat values up 1 to 2 cents per bushel. Dealers ignored bears. Other grains advanced.

Cotton.

Early advance of $1.50 per bale was trimmed some by realizing. December closed at 8.53, with the general market up 11 to 14 points.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Strength in Wall street and better Paris advices encouraged an extension of business on the stock exchange wherein the public participated. Speculative shares, industrials and transatlantic issues were favored mostly and had an upward trend. These were later joined by giltedged securities and other investment issues. The market closed firm at fractions under the best.

Paris—The excellent improvement of yesterday's session was maintained and prices forged ahead under speculative purchases and bear covering. Rentes were lively and bank shares, international issues and oils were buoyant. The closing was firm.

Berlin—Trading on the boerse was unsettled during the early part of the session due to the political situation, but showed an improved tone at the closing.

BONDS SINK AS RAILS FALTER IN UPRISING

Average Loss Is Placed at Seven-Tenths; Sales Drop to $14,751,000.

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Railroad bonds skidded on a slippery market track today and the casualties, especially among the speculative loan categories, were numerous.

Sales dropped considerably on the decline, however, totaling only $14,751,000, par value. But the average for 60 corporate securities dropped seven-tenths of a point, the largest day's recession since May 31.

The market opened fairly firm and a number of the previously depressed carriers displayed rallying tendencies. A rush of selling orders later wiped out most of the recoveries and many of the recently bouyant issues ended with losses of 1 to 3 or more points.

There were no outstanding news developments blamed for the crash of the carriers. Some dealers reported that speculators were unable to resist the temptation to cash in their huge profits on rail bonds, which, in some instances, have advanced more than 300 per cent above the June lows.

The principal losses and the heaviest trading were distributed between loans of Allegheney, Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, New York Central, New Haven, Nickel Plate and Southern Pacific.

Australian obligations were heavily traded for gains of a point or more and the Argentines, Chileans and Colombians advanced. The Germans rallied moderately while the Japanese again eased. The United States Government section was fairly firm but inactive.

U. S. Iron and Steel Exports Are Increased During July

(Associated Press.)

Exports of iron and steel products from the United States increased slightly in July, amounting to 52,558 gross tons, as compared with 52,081 gross tons the preceding month.

The Department of Commerce said the trade began its second upward movement for the year in July. Between March and May exports rose from 40,492 gross tons to 80,477 gross tons only to decline in June. Japan was the leading customer in July, taking 17,730 gross tons.

HARVESTER DIVIDEND CUT TO $1.20 BASIS

Norfolk & Western Earns $6,477,282 for Seven Months of 1932.

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The International Harvester Co. today declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents on the common stock, placing it on a $1.20 annual basis compared with $1.80 previously. The dividend is payable October 15 to stockholders of record September 20.

Norfolk & Western Railway Co. for the first seven months this year had net income of $6,477,282, equal after dividend requirements on the 4 per cent preferred to $4.22 a share on the common stock. This compares with $11,237,892 or $7.60 a common share in the first seven months of 1931.

The Midvale Company today declared a dividend of 75 cents, payable October 1 to stock of record September 17. Previously the company paid $1 quarterly. A majority of the outstanding stock is owned by the Baldwin Locomotive Co. United Corporation, the Morgan-sponsored utility holding company, ordered the regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents a share on the common stock, payable October 1 to stock of record September 6.

The Southern Pacific Co. today reported net operating income for July of $500,656, compared with $2,952,603 in July, 1931. Gross revenues totaled $11,929,79, against $18,284,869.

Standard Brands, Inc., today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents on the common stock, payable October 1 to stock of record September 6.

San Francisco, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The Western Pacific Railroad Co. reported today it had made an operating profit in July of $28,719—the first monthly profit this year.

Copper Advance Continues.

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A further advances in copper prices in the export market was reported today. European prices were said to be on the basis of 5.60 to 5.75 cents a pound compared with 5.45 to 5.55 cents yesterday.

COTTON AGAIN RISES IN BUOYANT TRADING

December Closes at 8.53 as Market Gives Up Some of Early Gains.

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—An early advance of approximately $1.50 per bale in cotton today, was followed by partial reactions under realizing combined with Southern and scattered selling.

December contracts after advancing from 8.48 to 8.69 during the early trading, or nearly 125 points above the low level of last week and 339 points above the June lows, closed at 8.53. The general market closed barely steady at net advances of 11 to 14 points.

While the price movement was narrower today, particularly after the early advance, the volume of business according to some observers was even greater than that of yesterday, with profit taking offset by fresh trade or commission house buying.

Liverpool cables reported heavy general buying and covering in that market. Houses with Liverpool connections traded both ways here, probably selling on balance. Exports today, 3,062, making 305,714 so far this season.

Quebec Lumber to Gain By British Preferences

Montreal, Quebec, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The Quebec lumber industry will benefit from the British preference on Canadian lumber in the opinion of Col. Henry Morgan, head of the official delegation of the British timber trade at the imperial economic conference.

"I have inspected a number of mills in Quebec since the end of the conference," said Col. Morgan, today, "and certainly the larger ones strike me as being well able to compete in the British market."

AUTO SALE INCREASE IS SEEN IN AUTUMN

Heavy Decline in Summer Expected to Give Way to Commodity Rise.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York Aug. 25.—The seasonal summer contraction in production and sales of automobiles has been more than usually pronounced this year, particularly in the last two months. In fact, the first seven months of 1932 were exceedingly trying ones for the automotive industry. Oversold markets both here and abroad, accentuated by curtailed purchasing power everywhere, contributed to a severe shrinkage in retail demand, according to the survey just made of the industry by Dun's Review.

"Production for the first seven months of this year," Dun's Review continues, "was 45 per cent under that of the corresponding period of 1931, or 1,024,239 units, compared with 1,863,451 units in January to July, inclusive, in 1931. This is lower even than the previous lowest year since the war, which was 1921. July production this year was only 50 per cent of that for the same month last year, or 112,600 against a total output of 224,424 in July, 1931.

"Although August customarily is one of the dullest months of the year in the industry, due to the midsummer closing down for vacations and stock-taking, a healthy spirit of optimism is not entirely lacking among the automotive leaders, who look for an upturn in sales during the early fall months. Many plants are clearing away current models in preparation for 1933 products, to be launched late this year. Consumers right now are interested primarily in the maximum of value at the minimum of cost.

"The recent improvement in commodity and security prices has increased the problems confronting the managements of many companies," the survey points out. "For three years, officers of most companies have been concentrating on reducing expenses and curtailing inventories. Now the new problem of attempting to catch the turn has arisen. For manufacturers must avoid working out expensive new models in an inactive market, yet they must be ready with attractive cars as soon as there is evidence of reviving demand."

ALEXANDRIA VOTES $45,000 ROAD FUND

Man, Detained by Police, Is Identified by Fingerprints as Slayer Suspect.

The Alexandria City Council yesterday adopted a resolution appropriating $45,000 for the reconstruction of that portion of U. S. Route No. 1, known as the River road, or the Alexandria-Washington highway, from the R., F. & P. Railroad bridge at Alexandria avenue to Four Mile Run, the city limits, to connect with the portion of the highway which was improved by the State highway commission about a year ago.

The roadway will be 28 feet wide, to consist of a bituminous macadam center 18 feet wide, with 5-foot concrete shoulders on the sides. The resolution authorized the city manager to call for bids for constructing the concrete shoulders, it being considered that this work could be done more cheaply contract than by the city forces. It was also provided that the contractor, if the work is done by contract, will be required to employ Alexandria labor, and to maintain the Alexandria scale of 35 cents an hour for common labor.

The council adopted an ordinance, amending the zoning ordinance, No. 109, changing the classification of the square bounded by Washington, Jefferson, Franklin and Columbus streets, with the exception of two small parcels of land, from commercial "D" to residential "A" and "B."

A resolution was introduced and held over the rules, appropriating $12,000 for the construction of a culvert over Hooff's Run, and approaches from Simms street to Washington avenue, to afford a connecting link between Rosemont Park and Temple Park.

Through his fingerprints, a colored man who has been held by the Alexandria police for several days for investigation has been identified as William Gaither, 22 years old, of Winston-Salem, N. C., wanted by the Baltimore police on a charge of manslaughter and stealing an automobile. The man, whose face was swathed in bandages, was picked up by Sergt. Lawrence Padgett and Policemen Bayliss and Stover Saturday morning.

Information was received to the effect that the man was wanted in Baltimore, and Detective Sergt. O'Brien, of that city, came to Alexandria and took the man to Baltimore. According to the officer, Gaither stole an automobile belonging to Mrs. Ella Miller, 7226 Park Heights, Baltimore, August 13. A few days later the car was driven into a telephone pole at Newberg, Charles County, Md., resulting in the fatal injury of Walter Matthews, colored, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and injury to another man who was treated at the Freedmen's Hospital in Washington.

Colvin Run Citizens to Hold Annual Carnival

The annual carnival sponsored by the Colvin Run Citizens Association will open this evening at 6 o'clock on the grounds of the community hall on the Alexandria-Leesburg pike. The regular carnival features and a square dance will make up this evening's program.

Gasoline Tax Nets Arlington $13,572.

The treasurer of Arlington County yesterday received from the State treasurer a total of $13,572.94, the county's share of the gasoline tax for the months of June and July.

Inquest in Oxon Hill Death Will Not Be Held

No inquest will be held into the death of Edward Burch, of Oxon Hill, Md., Maryland authorities have decided, but further charges against his alleged assailant, Jesse Grimes, of Oxon Hill, will be considered when Grimes is given a hearing on charges of assault with intent to kill.

Burch died early yesterday at Emergency Hospital, three weeks after being struck over the head by a bottle during a fight in Oxon Hill. The altercation was not reported to the police until this week, when the assault charge was placed against Grimes. He is free on bond of $500 on this count, and has not been rearrested since Burch's death.

FIREMEN FIELD DAY TO OPEN TOMORROW

Arlington-Fairfax Event to Include Prizes for Contest Winners.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association holds its annual field day exercises tomorrow, beginning at 1 o'clock.

The program includes the following events: First aid contest, running hook-up, standing pumper contest, ladder climbing, field events, running broad jump, standing broad jump, sack race, three-legged race and other contests.

The judges will be Chief Tierney, of Greater Capitol Heights; Chief Noble Rushe, of Hyattsville, Md.; T. Walter Scott, past president of the Prince Georges County Firemen's Association, and W. R. Beattie, of Bladensburg.

The prizes will be cash and silver cups.

The Gloth Trophy must be won three consecutive times. It is now held by the Ballston department, who won it last year.

Plans to arrange a series of mass meetings as one of the major parts of the Democratic campaign in Arlington County were perfected at a meeting of the executive committee of the Arlington County Democratic Men's Club held last night at the home of the president, Robert N. Anderson.

Arrangements will be carried out by a committee composed of Robert N. Anderson, Charles R. Fenwick and C. W. Lee.

According to the report of Leo Lloyd, chairman of the membership committee, the club, with an increase of 48 new members, has reached the 350 mark. He says he expects to double this number within the next ten days.

President Anderson announces the appointment of William R. Owens as vice chairman of the Arlington Precinct subcommittee.

G. O. P. Groups to Plan Campaign in Arlington

The Arlington County Republican committee will meet tonight with the campaign committee.

County Chairman L. C. MacPherson announces that the county committee plans to carry on one of the most aggressive campaigns ever waged in the county and predicts that the county will be found in the Republican column at the November election.

WOMEN'S MARKET PROGRAM MAPPED

Plans for Operation Under Supervision of Extension Service Discussed.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4200.

Plans for operation of the farm women's market at Bethesda under the supervision of the extension service of the University of Maryland were discussed at a meeting of the marketing committee of the Montgomery Council of Home Demonstration Clubs last night in the Rockville Courthouse. The plans were approved by the committee and will be presented to the sellers at a meeting Monday night in the courthouse.

The plans were presented by Otto W. Anderson, county farm agent, and Miss Edythe B. Turner, home demonstration agent. Mrs. James D. King presided. The principal difference between the plan and the present one of the farm women is that it provides for a strictly cooperative organization and not for a business corporation. One share of common stock will entitle to membership and the shares will be sold at a nominal cost.

The constitution and bylaws for the farm group under the new plan are being prepared by Dr. F. B. Bamberger, marketing expert of the Federal Farm Board and former assistant director of the extension service.

The home demonstration council has taken over the lease for the property on Leland street near Wisconsin avenue which is being used at prseent as a market. The market will operate under the present plan, with Miss Blanche Corwin, who was deposed as home demonstration agent after organizing the women for the farm market, as manager, until the women have either approved or disapproved the extension service plan.

In a statement previously released, Miss Corwin had said that the farm women do not oppose the plans prepared by Dr. T. B. Symons, director of extension, but that they are far aheal in that most of it has been accomplished. Through a typographical error, The Post yesterday said that the women opposed the plan but this should read that the women do not oppose the plan.

Gaithersburg, Md., will celebrate the George Washington Bicentennial tomorrow with a parade, hook-up contests, speeches, a chicken supper and dancing. The ceebration is under the auspices of the mayor and council and the Gaithersburg Chamber of Commerce. The Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Volunteer Fire Department also is cooperating.

One of the chief features of the day will be the annual hook-up contest of county firemen for the Dudley Browne Cup. This cup has been won once each by the Sandy Spring, Chevy Chase and Bethesda fire departments and for the past two years by the Gaithersburg-Washington Grove department, which will retain the cup permanently if it wins again this year.

The day will begin with a parade at 2 p. m., headed by the Victory Post, American Legion, drum and bugle corps. Local civic and business bodies and 25 pieces of fire apparatus will take part. Hugh Reid, Arlington County member of the Virginia Legislature, will be the principal speaker. He will be introduced by Dr. George Edmonds, Montgomery County delegate to the Maryland House of Delegates. The hook-up will begin at 4, followed by a woman's hook-up contest at 5 p. m.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

RALPH A. KENNEDY, New York business man who, in his own words "for no reason at all," set out a number of years ago to play on as many different golf courses as possible, added another feature to his golf accomplishments by playing four rounds with four foursomes in four States—all in the same day.

The matches were arranged by telephone by Mr. Kennedy and were played in Baxter Springs, Kans., Joplin, Mo., Miami, Okla., and Bella, Ark., on February 22, 1931—one of the shortest days in the year. The four towns are located within a radius of about 50 miles.

Lord Kingsborough's $300,000 book never reached the best-seller class. Although authorities differ on the exact number printed, it is safe to say that less than a dozen and a half were ever produced. Prepared in seven volumes, "Antiquities of Mexico" deals with ancient Mexican paintings, monuments and writings. In this work A. Aggio, artist, spent six years in research. Lord Kingsborough began his work about 1826.

Lord Kingsborough died in a debtors' prison because he could not or would not pay a disputed bill for paper for his book.

A meteor is not a meteor if it hits the earth's surface—it is a meteorite. Meteorite is the name applied to metallic or rock fragments falling on the earth from outer space. A meteor is a similar body, except that it passes through the atmosphere and again into outer space, or is consumed by heat before it reaches the surface of the earth.

BARRICADED MAN, 35, ROUTED BY TEAR GAS

George Lindner Menaces Police for Three Hours Near Oxon Hill.

Clouds of tear gas were released yesterday to subdue an allegedly insane man who had barricaded himself in his home near Oxon Hill, Md., and menaced Prince Georges County police for three hours as they tried to dislodge him.

Only after a tear-gas bomb had been hurled into his room by Capt. A. W. Marks, of the Eleventh Precinct, who was deputized in the county because of his experience with gas, was the man quieted. He gave his name as George Lindner, 35, before he was taken to the Marlboro Jail for mental examination.

Father Calls Police.

Police were called to the house yesterday by John Lindner, 80, father of the alleged maniac. His son, the father told them, had been acting strangely for several years, but yesterday had locked himself in his room. Pleading with the officers not to hurt his son, the father took them through a narrow, dark hall to his room on the second floor.

George Lindner refused to answer the calls of Sergt. A. W. Hepburn, who was accompanied by Privates Oscar Beall and R. Arnold Naylor; his door was locked. The policemen crashed it open. Lindner rushed at them, screaming and striking at them with a carpenter's hammer. Unable to disarm him in the narrow hall and reluctant to shoot, the police retreated down the stairs. Lindner closed his battered door and nailed it up.

Tear Gas Used.

After discussion, Sergt. Hepburn decided to borrow tear gas from the District government, and Capt. Marks returned with him to use it. Mounting a ladder to an open window, Capt. Marks tossed a gas bomb through it after breaking out the screen. As clouds of gray smoke eddied out of the window, the man was heard tearing the bars from his door. Appearing in the doorway, he staggered to the stairs and started down them when he was grabbed by Sergt. Hepburn. Still resisting and screaming, he was carried from the house while his father danced about the group of captors, begging them not to hurt his son. Finally, handcuffed and with tears streaming through the matted beard which covered his face, he was placed in a police car and taken to Marlboro, while his father waved behind him a bundle of his clothing he had prepared for his stay in jail.

Man With Taped Face Gets $20 in Holdup

An armed man, his face covered with white adhesive tape, early yesterday held up and robbed the manager of a restaurant at 2467 Eighteenth street northwest and escaped with $20.

Larry L. Wilcox, proprietor of the cafe, told police the man entered alone and after ordering something to eat, produced a gun and demanded money. After rifling the cash register of $20 he fled on foot. Wilcox said the man's face was almost entirely covered with white tape as a mask to hide his features.

The disturbance that was east of Hudson Bay Wednesday night has moved rapidly eastward to the northeast of Newfoundland, Fogo, 29.82 inches, with a trough extending westward to eastern Ontario, Cochrane, 29.78 inches, and thence southwestward to southern Minnesota, Minneapolis, 29.74 inches. High pressure prevails south of Newfoundland, Sable Island, 30.10 inches, with an extension west-southwestward to the Virginia coast, Norfolk, 30.12 inches. Another high-pressure area is moving eastward over Hudson Bay, Churchill, 30.10 inches, with an extension southwestward to Montana. Showers have occurred in the northern Plains States, the upper Mississippi Valley, the upper Lake region, and along the Gulf and Florida coasts. Temperatures have risen in portions of New England, while they have fallen in the lower Missouri Valley.

COAST GUARDSMAN WINS RIFLE MATCH

M. N. Cobb Gains Victory in Third Corps Meet After Close Defeat.

After having victory in the Navy Cup match snatched from his grasp on his last shot, enough to upset any rifleman keyed up to the formidable competition, M. N. Cobb, of the Coast Guard, went right back and won the Coast Guard rapid-fire match in the National Rifle Association's Third Corps Area shoot at Quantico, Va., yesterday, the second day of the meet.

In the Navy Cup event, 20 shots at 200 yards, Cobb and a fellow-Coast Guardsman, Paul Goulden, tied with 96x100. Until his twentieth and last shot, Cobb had run a string of fourteen consecutive 5s, but that last shot went for a 4. Goulden's longest uninterrupted string of 5s was six, before he squeezed the trigger for his final effort, an effort which netted him a 5 counter.

Cobb, however, left no room for question when he went to work in the Coast Guard match in which 124 competed. He hung up a 98-100, getting 49 at both the 200 and 300-yard ranges. Sergt. J. P. Blount, Virginia National Guard, of Berryville, Va., and Wilfred Mitchell and Ervin Frye, Coast Guard, each got 97's but ranked in the order named, Blount getting the prize for the high guardsman. C. F. B. Price, jr., of Quantico, scoring a 92, was high civilian.

The Coast Guard got first, third, fourth, fifth, ninth and tenth place medals in the Coast Guard match, and the Marine Corps got sixth, seventh and eighth place medals.

In the Navy Cup match, with 127 entries, Staff Sergt. H. Parsons, of the District of Coumbia National Guard, was high guardsman, with 93.

The third match of the day, the Marine Corps Cup match, went to a Marine, G. W. Walker, private, first class, whose 98 outranked the 98 made by Gunnery Sergt. Morris Fisher, also of the Marines. Third place went to Gunnery Sergt. John Blakely, Marines, who got a 97, which outranked four other 97's. The match was fired 10 shots at 600 yards and 10 at 1,000 yards.

Sergt. Parsons, of the District of Columbia Guard, was also high guardsman in this match, getting 97 to place fifth among all competitors. Alfred Yeomans, of Washington, took the prize for the high civilian competitor, getting 89.

The Marines took the first four places, District National Guard took fifth place, the Coast Guard sixth, seventh and ninth places, the Marines eighth place and the Virginia National Guard tenth place. A. R. Martin being the Virginia guardsman who finished in the medal class.

Truck Driver Shot Resisting Arrest

Man Tried to Brush Him Off Vehicle, Says Policeman.

Robert Jones, 29, colored, was wounded in the neck yesterday afternoon when, according to police, he attempted to brush Private Hubert Estes, First precinct, from the side of a truck Jones was driving. The policeman had jumped on the side of the truck to arrest Jones on a disorderly conduct charge.

Estes said he was driving home after reporting off duty when on M street northwest, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets, he noticed a considerable traffic jam. Estes said he investigated and found Jones' truck and a coupe parked in each other's path, with both refusing to move. He ordered them on, he said, and Jones obeyed reluctantly and answered with profanity.

The policeman said he then jumped on the running board of the truck. Jones, he said, drove alongside a row of parked machines in an attempt to brush him off. Estes said he drew his gun and while using it as a club the weapon discharged. Jones was taken to Georgetown Hospital, where it was said his condition was not serious. Police said he would be arrested when discharged from treatment.

2 Men and "Supply" Seized in Liquor Raid

Two men were arrested and a quantity of alleged liquor was seized yesterday in a raid on a house at 1201 Twenty-first street northwest by police of the Third Precinct.

The men said they were John Moore, 30 years old, of the Twenty-first street address, and Bernard Clark, 32 years old, of 1240 Twenty-second street northwest. They were held for investigation when police said they found 27 pints of liquor in Moore's home.

Trolley Trip Gives Rise to Kidnap Scare

Little Melvin Stiefel, 4, son of Nathan Stiefel, theater owner, of 1531 Varnum street northwest, was back at play with his bucket and shovel on the beach at Atlantic City yesterday, after a period of alarm the day before when it was thought he had been kidnaped.

It all started with Melvin's unquenchable desire to see his daddy, who was back in Washington, while the family were at their summer home at Atlantic City. Melvin's nurse, Mrs. Mary McGuigan, decided that a trip on the electric line to Philadelphia, where she has acquaintances, would assuage the lad's yearning for his parent.

So the pair started off. However, Mrs. McGuigan forgot to notify the family of her project. When their absence was noticed an alarm was broadcast to police up and down the Atlantic Coast and the kidnap scare was on. A few hours later the pair were recognized on the car, were questioned and on explanation of the nurse, were restored to the family.

Shinault Slayer Indicted by Jury

True Bill Is Returned as Police Spur Hunt for Bullock.

Sought as the slayer of Policeman George W. Shinault, Willie Bullock, colored, yesterday was indicted by the District grand jury on a charge of first degree murder. Police believe they will capture Bullock shortly, his haunts being constantly "covered."

Bullock is accused of shooting the policeman in front of 39 F street northwest, August 14, when Shinault and Policeman Ralph D. Edwards responded to the F street address in answer to a fight call. As Shinault leaped from the police car he was felled by three shots. Edwards chased Bullock, but lost him in the maze of alleys behind the house.

Shinault was recently exonerated by a coroner's jury which investigated the shooting of William Hushka, of Chicago, a member of the B. E. F. who was shot when he attacked the policeman during the eviction of the marchers.

9 INDICTED IN DEATH OF PARK POLICEMAN

3 Are Fugitives as 6 Remain in Jail Without Bail on Murder Charges.

In a 37-page indictment, returned yesterday to Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, in the District Supreme Court, nine Negroes were charged with the murder of Park Policeman Milo J. Kennedy, in Logan Circle, August 7. Three of the indicted are fugitives and the other six are being held without bail in the District Jail.

Those indicted are James Joseph Jackson, Irvin Murray, Ralph E. Holmes, Louie Redford Murray, Harry Montgomery Duvall, Leroy Robinson, Stanley Francis Clark, William Wood and Alphonso Henson. The last three are the fugitives.

The indictment, in 28 counts, charges each of the nine with killing the policeman with a brick, with his baton, and with a blunt instrument of a type unknown. The last count is an omnibus count, charging the slayer to be one of the nine with a definite identification unknown to the jurors, and with an unknown instrument. On this count alone, all can be convicted of first degree murder.

Kennedy had arrested two Negroes in the circle earlier in the evening, and when he revisited the place two hours later, he was "ganged." He died in Garfield Hospital the next morning.

2 Jailed B. E. F. Men's Terms Are Suspended

After spending approximately a month in jail, Pomeroy Gravely, colored, and Harold Irwin, members of the B. E. F., yesterday were called in before Judge Isaac R. Hitt, in Police Court, who suspended the five months remaining to be served. The pair had been convicted of unlawful occupancy of a Government building and were given 180 days.

Judge Hitt told the men he was suspending the balance of their sentences because of extenuating circumstances. At the same time he dismissed a motion by Jesse C. Duke, attorney, which had sought to have assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh adjudged in contempt of court for certain references he made to Duke during his argument in the case.

CAPITAL REALTY PUT AT $1,226,691,948

Tax Assessor Renders His Report for Fiscal Year to to City Heads.

The total assessed valuation of real estate in Washington for the fiscal year 1932, is placed at $1,226,691,948 by Tax Assessor William P. Richards in the annual report which he submitted yesterday to the District Commissioners. This represented an increase of $15,529,330 over the assessments for the previous year and amounted to six times the $204,767,547 total for the year 1911, though at that time assessments were only two-thirds value instead of the true value as at present.

Land valuation was assessed at $554,072,879 and improvements at $672,619,069 by Mr. Richards. Real estate taxes, as had been reported previously by the tax collector, amounted to $20,853,855.72.

The value of new buildings and additions during the year amounted to $31,082,100, located as follows: Northeast city, $5,666,500; northeast and southeast city, $2,987,500; southwest city, $200,500; northwest county and Georgetown, $17,472,950; northeast and southeast county, $4,755,100. Assessments for improvements removed amounted to $3,863,200.

Blame for Decrease.

The report blamed the decrease in personal taxes of $324,647.88 on the economic condition and points out that now prosecutions have been resorted to for failure to file personal tax returns. A threat of court action has been all that was necessary.

The loss of $29,188,792 in intangible personal taxes was termed "comparatively small" by Mr. Richards, "in view of the enormous trouble in all classes of securities from July 1, 1930, to June 30, 1931."

The tax assessor recalls his vigorous recommendation to the last Congress of a replacement of the intangible tax with an income tax. The latter, he declares, would be more fair and equitable, it would bring more taxpayers on the books and, "it is believed that an income tax would eventually produce more revenue for the District than is at present collected under the intangible tax law."

Special Assessment.

Special assessments for sidewalks, street extensions, building lines, paving roadways and the like totaled $1,158,458.33.

The water-main tax division levied assessments amounting to $165,377.21 last year, as against $252,867.32 for the previous fiscal year, and collected $171,132.02, including interest and forced sales.

An analysis of the gasoline tax, which amounted to $1,992,709.51, revealed an average tax on gasoline per car of $16.60, an increase in car consumption of $3.22 over the previous year.

The report states that the office was particularly active in checking gasoline consumption because of reports of tax evasion, but that only one "flagrant" violation was found.

License fees for the year brought in $193,321.01, an increase of $8,218.62 over 1931. The new license law, which became effective this year, it is pointed out, will materially increase the receipts from this tax.

Legion Post Seeks Johnson Pay Data

Moves to Ask Him If He Got House Pay During His Army Service.

In a resolution adopted yesterday, Victory Post of the American Legion, asked Representative Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, to state whether he received compensation as a member of Congress during his army service.

The post further resolved if the representative did receive any such compensation that "the American Legion take the necessary action to bring the payment of this bonus to the attention of the people of South Dakota and the entire United States."

According to South Trimble, clerk of the House, Representative Johnson resigned from his seat in the House when he enlisted in the Army during the war and received no compensation other than his army pay.

Man Indicted in Brother's Slaying.

Andrew D. Minor, colored, accused by police of slaying his brother, Ralph L. Minor, yesterday was indicted for murder in the first degree by the District grand jury. Ralph allegedly was shot and killed when he refused to lend his brother money so he could play in a dice game.

About The Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL

THAT high-strung Southern gentleman, Mr. Sam Galanty, Washington branch manager of the Columbia Pictures Corporation, has rendered me slightly in his debt—a habit of his of long standing, by the way—by plumping down upon my heavily inlaid teakwood desk, the one with the cigarette burns all over it, an illuminating brochure dedicated to the whys and wherefores of Mr. James Cruze's appointment to the sizable task of directing the celluloid version of that fabulous tome of life under the surface in the National Capital, "Washington Merry-Go-Round," first edition.

The reason James Cruze—whom you will at once remember as the former husband of Betty Compson, recently here in person with all her diamonds as chief luminary of the Fanchon and Marco "Star Night" unit—was selected to direct this "great political epic" (sic), one learns from the first paragraph, was because he holds the unique distinction in Hollywood of being able, beyond the power of any other director, to inject a spirit of American patriotism into his films.

This, it is further pointed out, was demonstrated by such memorable accomplishments as "The Covered Wagon," "The Pony Express" and "Old Ironsides," into each of which he managed to get that intangible but heart-stirring quality of pride in country that made it doubly impressive.

Cruze, a man great in his simplicity, Mr. Galanty's typewriter goes on to say, has accepted the heavy responsibility of directing the first big picture dealing with American politics on a national scale—and what became of "Washington Masquerade" all this time?—with the sincere conviction that "Washington Merry-Go-Round" will prove to be the "Covered Wagon" of 1932.

He feels that this is the type of picture that will instill a mass feeling of patriotic interest in their Government among some 35,000,000 voters, and what is equally important, among the millions of young Americans not yet old enough to cast their ballots, but who will see and be vastly impressed by this frank picturization of what goes on behind the scenes in Washington.

What is this, anyhow? Has somebody rewritten the book?

Gilbert and Sullivan's tuneful "Pinafore," which gives every indication of being scored as a hit by the critics and probably will rate as a success if given time, will be sung at the National Sylvan Theater in the Washington Monument Grounds, tonight at 8 o'clock, by a group of resident singers under the direction of Estelle Wentworth, who has had wide experience in both light and grand opera in this country and abroad. The operetta will be sung in its entirety, without intermission. Miss Wentworth will conduct the performance, with Mary Gastrock at the piano.

Glen Echo Park, having sprung a succession of surprises on its patrons during the summer, will pop another one at them Monday night when feminine visitors will be admitted free to the ballroom throughout the evening. This is a gesture of gratitude directed toward the entire sex, and not limited to any certain color of hair, eyes or finger nails.

Herb Williams, who convulsed audiences as headliner of last week's vaudeville bill at Loew's Fox, refused a booking for the current week so that he could hurry to his home on Long Island last night, preparatory to beginning the building of a gate this morning. He has wanted to build that gate for a year and now that he's at it probably hopes the booking office won't take a fence!

So having arrived at Hoover Airport at 4:40 p. m., Madam Negri held open house from 8 to 10 last evening at the Shoreham, many of the guests' eyes popping out like electric light bulbs at being in the presence.

Today's two best bets: That Everett Marshall will sing "That's Why Darkies Were Born," at the Earle, and Pola Negri, "Paradise," at Loew's Fox.

All right, maybe I'm wrong.

Washington Topham Left $33,500 Estate

Mrs. Annie C. Topham, widow of Washington Topham, was named as the principal beneficiary in her husband's estate it was disclosed yesterday when the National Metropolitan Bank, executor, filed a petition in the District Supreme Court, to have the will probated.

The estate is valued at $33,500. The Association of Oldest Inhabitants is given $1,000 and a like amount is given the board of managers of the Columbia Historical Society to help publish a volume on "Lives of the Mayors of Washington." The John Dickson Home, The Masonic Home and the Eastern Star Home were given $250 each. A son, John S. Topham, is given a home at 2903 North Capitol street and the widow is given the income from two thirds of the remainder for life, with the son getting the other third.

Legion Post Indorses Expulsion of Veterans

A blanket resolution commending the President, the Secretary of War, the District Commissioner and Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford for their handling of the bonus army situation, was adopted Wednesday night at the meeting of Quentin Roosevelt Post of the American Legion.

The meeting was held at Racaar Camp of the Potomac. Commander William H. Grass presided. The resolution was adopted to remedy a "false impression on the part of the people of the District" in regard to Legion's stand on the action taken in the bonus emergency.

Boy, 6, Badly Hurt When Struck by Auto

A 6-year-old boy suffered a fractured right leg and possible fracture of the left leg last night when struck and knocked down by an automobile as he attempted to cross the street near Ninth and G streets northeast.

The youth, Salvadore Prespopino, of 621 H street southwest, was taken to Emergency Hospital. His condition is undetermined. Police said the machine was driven by Frank Rosenberg, who said he lived at the Roosevelt Hotel. He was arrested and charged at the Ninth Precinct Station with reckless driving and bad hand brakes. He was released after posting $75 bond.

MODEL PLANE FINALS TO BE HELD TODAY

Four-Type Competition to Close; Luncheon Will Feature Events.

Final events in the 1932 District model aircraft tournament will be run off today at Macfarland Community Center, Iowa avenue and Webster street northwest. Competition will be held for four types of planes — Flying Truescale, Gliders, R. O. F. Fuselized and Baby R. O. F.'s.

The morning's events, beginning at 9 o'clock, will complete the indoor contests and will decide the 1932 District championship. George Leffler is leading the field with 34 points. His nearest competitor is Everett Meeks, 21 points. Third place position is held jointly by Harold Francke and Jack Friedman.

Other leaders are Jack Park and Blair Bennett with 14 points each, Edward Grannis, with 11 points and Bob Weihle, with 10 points.

The judges will be George Gardner, of the Department of Commerce, and Paul Edward Garber, of the National Museum. John H. Williams is supervisor and Miss Helen Collier, official time recorder.

Immediately after the close of the contest the annual model aircraft luncheon will be held at the Community Center, with Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the District Model Aircraft League, presiding. Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Board of District Commissioners, and R. L. Haycock, acting superintendent of schools, will be important guests.

At the luncheon the awards will be announced to the contestants, all of whom will be present. One of the officers of the Washington Board of Trade will attend to present the trophy donated by that body to the District champion. Every boy winning 1 point in the tournament will receive the D. C. M. A. L. certificate and the coveted green and white sweater emblem. The present champion is Edward Grannis.
